Committee Favors $70 Million Boost Over Last Biennium

Madison — (U) — The legislature had before it today a recommendation that could bring Wisconsin general fund spending in the 1959-61 biennium to an all-time high of $402 million.

The total would be nearly $70 million more than was spent in the biennium ending last July 1. Expenditures for 1957-59, in the general fund, were about $332 million.

Defeat Indicated
The Democratic-controlled joint finance committee recommended a 1960-61 spending program of about $218 million to be added to the appropriation of $184 million made earlier this year by the legislature for 1959-60 spending.

Indications are, however, that the Republican-controlled senate will refuse to accept the spending program, primarily because it opposes the methods proposed by Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson to provide funds to finance it.

If the senate refuses to pass the budget, the legislature will

Nehru Maps Talks With Ike

Expects to Include Dispute With China, He Tells Newsmen

New Delhi — (U) — Prime Minister Nehru today said his talks with President Eisenhower probably will range over the entire world situation, including India's border dispute with communist China and anything else.

Termining his meeting next week with the U. S. president, "most important," Nehru told his monthly news conference: "I want to chat with him about the lead he has given toward finding a way out of the entanglements in which the world finds itself."

Nehru praised Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and others for their recent leadership toward the easing of world tensions. He said the results already are perceptible in many ways.

Must Register
In a move to pin down the Chinese population in India, Nehru announced all foreign nationals — except those from British commonwealth countries — are being required to register with the government. Previously, foreigners who had lived in India prior to August, 1943, were not required to have residence permits.

Nehru made clear the new rule was prompted by recent demonstrations in Calcutta siding with red China in the border dispute.

The prime minister said only about 11,000 Chinese now are registered in Calcutta, India's largest city, but actually about 30,000 are there.

AP to Provide Special Coverage On Ike's Trip

President Eisenhower departs this evening on an unprecedented 22,000-mile trip to visit countries throughout the world.

Two members of the Associated Press reporting staff will accompany the president on the press plane to give Post-Crescent readers on-the-spot reports on happenings at each stop on the president's itinerary. Two Associated Press photographers will be along to handle photographic assignments.

Men from 17 bureaus of the AP will help cover the story in words and pictures. The Associated Press has been working for more than a month to set up the extra transmission facilities that will be needed.

140 Dead and 184 Missing as Dam Breaks in French Riviera

Hoffa Restricts Support When Others Strike

Won't Cross Picket Lines Unless Union Gets Guarantees

Chicago — (U) — James A. Hoffa says Teamsters union members in the future will ignore—with one exception—all picket lines set up by other unions.

"All teamsters locals will have orders," the Teamsters president told newsmen yesterday, "to drive through recognition, organizational and primary picket lines."

"The teamsters will make an exception on primary picket lines if the striking union will guarantee the teamsters against any possible loss through lawsuits, government action or any other expense incurred by the teamsters."

A primary strike is one called by a union recognized under law as the collective bargaining agent for workers at a specified company.

Influence of New Law
Thus, under Hoffa's order, teamsters members would cross lines set up by a union fighting for recognition as the bargaining agent for workers at a company.

"But, if guaranteed protection they would not cross lines set up by a recognized union in a campaign, say, for higher wages."

Last month, John T. O'Brien of Chicago, a Teamsters international vice president, ordered midwest Teamsters to cross all picket lines until he and the union's strategy board decided on its interpretation of picketing provisions of the newly passed Landrum-Griffin law, the so-called labor reform bill.

The new law forbids picketing when used as a weapon to shake down an employer for personal gain.

St. Lawrence Seaway Closing for Season

Montreal — (U) — The St. Lawrence seaway, opened last June by Queen Elizabeth II in her yacht Britannia, closes for the winter today after two tugs haul through a disabled straggler.

The Norwegian freighter Saltvik will be tugged into Montreal harbor at the eastern end of the seaway, the last of more than 6,500 vessels passing through the locks in the $75 million waterway's first season of operations.

Houses Smashed, Trees Uprooted, Trains Derailed And Communications Cut

BY GUY RIFFET

Frejus, France — (AP) — A massive wall of water released by the thundering collapse of a dam left a sluice of death, silt and destruction today along the rich Reyran river valley in the French Riviera.

At least 184 persons are dead, and 160 missing. Unofficial estimates said the final toll would reach 300.

Millions of tons of water backed up behind the 185-foot high Malpasset dam by five days of heavy rain were loosed upon the peacefully sleeping farm valley last night. The water smashed houses, uprooted trees, rolled over big trucks, derailed trains and broke telegraph and telephone poles.

Hours after—as rescuers began arriving and the waters subsided into the Mediterranean—the full disaster became apparent. The 4-mile-wide valley 16 miles southwest of Cannes was a jumbled canal of wreckage and silt.

The rushing waters partly London — (U) — The U. S. Navy today sent ships and planes of the 8th fleet in the Mediterranean to aid rescue work in the disaster area of southern France.

U. S. headquarters in London said the fleet carrier and destroyer forces, including planes and helicopters, have been made available to French rescuers.

In addition U. S. amphibious forces of the fleet were standing by, headquarters said.

Dies After Attack In Chicago Park

Chicago — (U) — Konstantine Tscherepanov, 66, walked his mongrel dog in Sherman park every morning. He carried bread crumbs for the ducks in the park lagoon. His love for the ducks cost him his life.

He was beaten to death yesterday, police said, after he reprimanded three 15-year-old boys for throwing sticks at the ducks.

Police said young Valerian Stechly struck Tscherepanov on the jaw when the older man grabbed one boy and cursed him. Tscherepanov fell, striking his head on a bridge abutment.

The boy, Robert Murphy, 39, stepped into a darkened room of her Brooklyn home and caught 22-caliber rifle slugs in her chest and shoulder.

As Mrs. Murphy lay in a hospital last night, her husband John, 42, a sanitation truck driver, issued an appeal which he hoped might reach the boy:

"Robert, don't be frightened. Your mother and I both love you very much. Your mother needs you now more than ever. Please contact me as soon as possible and I'll give you all the help that is humanly possible."

"If ever you felt any love for your mother, now is the time to come to her. She needs you. She told me to night that she forgives you."

U. S., Russia Try To Agree on Space Study Committee

United Nations, N. Y. — Working against the calendar, the United States and Russia are stepping up behind-scene efforts to reach agreement on the makeup of a U. N. committee to study ways to keep outer space peaceful.

Both the U. S. and Soviet delegations kept a tight lid of secrecy on the negotiations, but Soviet informants hinted privately there might be some announcement in a day or two.

Sources close to the U. S. delegation were more guarded. They indicated there was about a 50-50 chance the two nations would come together on a division of seats for a permanent U. N. committee.

Prodding the negotiations was the new target date for the assembly to end its 1959 session — Dec. 12.

Bookie Shot to Death At Table in Restaurant

Sherman Oaks, Calif. — (U) — A man police call the biggest bookie in the San Fernando valley was shot dead in a restaurant last night only six feet from a table occupied by former bigtime bookie Mickey Cohen.

Cohen said he didn't do it and he doesn't know who did. Police say Jack F. Whalen, 38, alias Jack O'Hara of near-by Encino strode into the restaurant, walked up to the table next to Cohen's and punched a man in the nose.

The man drew a gun, shot Whalen in the head and walked out.

Long Police Record
Whalen had a police record extending back to 1938. He had been convicted of swindling, bookmaking, assault, and battery. He was free on $5,000 bail while appealing a recent extortion conviction.

Police Chief William Parker himself, plus his top aides, sped to the scene — Rondelli's restaurant on Ventura boulevard. Officers began picking up known hoodlums by the score for questioning.

"Whalen went to the restaurant last night to see the 'big man' about a gambling beef," Parker told newsmen. "He lost a lot of money last weekend."

Who is the "big man"? Parker wouldn't say. It isn't Cohen, he said.

Cohen told police that a man he doesn't know was seated at a table six feet away when Whalen, whom he said he also did not know, walked in. He said he saw the blow, struck without a

Brazilian Officers May be in Revolt

Seize at Least 3 Planes; War Minister Put in Charge

BY FRED L. STROZIER

Rio de Janeiro — (U) — Brazilian air force officers seized at least three planes in Rio today and flew off in a northerly direction, apparently in a revolt against President Juscelino Kubitschek.

The ministry of war went on a state of alert and War Minister Henrique Teixeira Lott conferred with top government figures. Kubitschek placed Lott in charge of the nation's defense.

Government sources compared the flight to the "pocket revolution" in 1956—shortly after Kubitschek took office—when an air force major, captain and sergeant seized power.

Nelson Opens Stretch of New Interstate Road

Kenosha — (U) — Gov. Gaylord Nelson said opening of a 23.7-mile segment of Interstate 94 today marks the climax of "the most significant period of highway development in the history of modern Wisconsin."

His remarks were included at ribbon-cutting ceremonies near the southern end of the new road. It begins at the Illinois-Wisconsin line and stretches north along the old U. S. 41 route through Racine and Kenosha.

The opening brings completed mileage in the state's 453-mile interstate system to about 180 miles. A 7½ mile Waukesha county strip of the Madison-Milwaukee leg of the system was opened in 1958, the remainder this year.

"The 80 miles opened in the last two months," Nelson said, "represents one of the highest completion rates on the system throughout the U. S."

Stresses Value Of GIs Abroad

Brucker Calls Them Indispensable as Deterrent to Reds

New York — (U) — Army Sec.

Wilbur M. Brucker said today United States soldiers on allied soil are "absolutely indispensable" as a deterrent to communism.

"Unfortunately, in this age when so much stress is laid upon space projects and mighty, long-range nuclear weapons, the true greatness and extent of the army's contribution to the cause of peace is not as well known as it should be," he said.

Brucker addressed a symposium in the second day of the sixty-fourth annual Congress of American Industry.

"Both from a military and a psychological standpoint, nothing could take the place of powerful, battle ready American army troops standing shoulder-to-shoulder with allied units," he said.

His remarks were included at ribbon-cutting ceremonies near the southern end of the new road. It begins at the Illinois-Wisconsin line and stretches north along the old U. S. 41 route through Racine and Kenosha.

Set for Good Will Mission

BY JOHN M. NIGHTOWER
Washington — (U) — President Eisenhower takes off for Rome tonight on the first leg of a jet-propelled good will tour of 11 nations.

His departure, immediately after a radio-television speech to the nation, will follow a full day's work scheduled.

Prepares for Summit
The 15-minute broadcast, starting at 6:15 p. m. CST was expected to include both a new plea for settlement of the steel dispute, and an explanation of Eisenhower's purposes in making his extraordinary journey.

Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday he wants to prove to the people of the world that the United States is a "good partner" with other nations in the quest for a just peace.

Senate Approves Cost Of Rose Parade Float

Madison — (U) — The senate adopted and sent to the assembly today a resolution authorizing the cost of placing a Wisconsin float in the Rose Bowl parade in Pasadena Jan. 1.

The money, estimated to be about $18,000, will come from advertising funds in the agriculture and conservation departments.

This Map Shows the Route of President Eisenhower's long, 11-nation journey which will begin Thursday night. The president will cover more than 22,000 miles, all by air except for a trip aboard a U. S. navy cruiser from Athens, Greece, to Toulon, France.

FCC Demands Payola Reports

All Broadcasting Stations Required Give Information

Washington — (U) — The federal communications commission today ordered every broadcasting station in the country to report promptly whether any payola practice has figured in its operations during the past year.

The directive went out to 5,236 stations. It covers both commercial and educational outlets in the standard radio, FM radio and television fields.

"Sneaky Commercials"
The FCC order requires that the stations file sworn statements not later than Jan. 4, covering station operations since Nov. 1, 1958.

Officials said the object of today's order is to trace back the handling of "sneaky commercials" — plugs on the air which are paid for but not so identified.

The officials noted that the federal communications act specifically requires that all matter put on the air for which a remuneration has been paid to anyone must be identified as a commercial.

Foster Father Urges Boy Suspected of Shooting to Return

New York — (U) — A 16-year-old boy sought by police as the attacker who critically wounded his foster mother has been forgiven by her and her husband.

Tourists Avoiding Cuban Playground

Loss to Fidel Castro's Country Runs Into Millions Annually; Ship Lines Cancel Havana Stops

New York — Thousands of free-spending American tourists are bypassing Fidel Castro's Cuba for other Caribbean countries, travel officials here say.

The loss to Cuba runs into millions annually.

The decline in Cuba's tourist trade is blamed upon anti-American statements by high Cuban officials and reports of incidents in Havana.

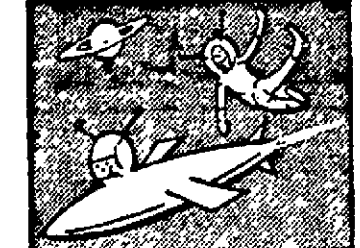

"You can't blame the tourist," one travel agent said. "He doesn't want to go where he's not welcome."

Travelers have said: "Why should we spend our money in a country where we're not wanted?"

All of the major steamship lines have canceled Havana as a port-of-call on their winter cruises. These lines in the past have carried an estimated 30,000 tourists to Havana each year. One line, the Holland-America, alone carried 10,000.

Hotels Hurt

Hotels in Havana have been badly hurt by the drop in tourist visits. The Hotel Havana Riviera, built in 1957 through a federal loan, was taken over last week by the Cuban government. The hotel was losing $10,000 a day, officials said.

U. S. Asks India For Action in Kidnap Case

Criminal Proceeding Requested Against Chinese Red Captor

Bombay, India — The United States has asked India to take criminal action against members of communist China's consular staff in Bombay for the alleged kidnapping of Marine Sgt. Robert Armstrong last Friday.

A spokesman for the U. S. consulate general said a formal complaint was filed with Indian authorities Tuesday.

American officials earlier said no action would be taken in the case without the Indian government's consent. The latest step indicated such consent was obtained.

Refused Information

Indian police reported today that the key Chinese in the incident, Chang Chien-Yu, had not been arrested. They refused to give out further information except to say that if he is arrested, the case will be proceeded with like any other kidnapping prosecution.

Chang is believed to be hiding in the communist Chinese consulate.

Asked Asylum

Chang, a member of Red China's export-import corporation, asked the U. S. consulate general for asylum but changed his mind following an overnight stay at a beach cottage with Armstrong as an escort.

As the two were returning to Bombay, the taxi stopped near the Chinese consulate. Chang and Armstrong got out, taking with him a tape recording of his statement requesting asylum.

When Armstrong attempted to seize the recording, six Chinese dashed from the consulate and dragged the marine inside, where they bound, beat and questioned him. He was released only after Indian police intervened at U. S. request.

Forced Statement

Red China charged that the American consulate general kidnapped Chang, held him overnight and forced him to sign a statement asking for asylum.

Chang broke away from Armstrong, and the marine chased him with a knife. Other consulate employees restrained the marine and held him until Indian police arrived.

9 Stricken With Food Poisoning at LaCrosse

LaCrosse — At least nine persons were stricken with food poisoning Thursday after eating at a "potluck" dinner at the LaCrosse American Legion club.

Seven were taken to hospitals and the other two to their homes. Hospital attendants said they did not believe any of those stricken were in critical condition.

Stamp Honors 1st Surgeon to Perform Abdominal Surgery

Danville, Ky. — On a frosty Christmas in 1809 a young country doctor—actually he had no medical degree—operated on a woman who had a painfully swollen abdomen.

He first asked her "if she thought herself prepared to die."

The woman did not die, and today the nation honored the surgeon for performing the world's first major abdominal operation. A maroon on white 4-cent postage stamp went on sale here bearing the likeness of Dr. Ephraim McDowell.

Doctors and statesmen gathered for the first-day-isue ceremonies. The 120 million stamps will go on sale throughout the rest of the nation tomorrow.

The ceremonies will be at the tiny red brick apothecary shop here where the pioneer surgeon performed the historic operation.

AWOL Slayer Bound Over to Circuit Court

Sparta — An AWOL soldier charged with two counts of first degree murder in the gun slaying of his aunt and uncle, Wednesday was bound over to circuit court for trial.

Rheinschmidt entered pleas of innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to both charges at his preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Zel S. Rice.

Authorities said Rheinschmidt has admitted shooting his uncle, Theron Morris, 31, and Morris' wife, Rita, 28, the night of Oct. 30.

Had Arguments

Rheinschmidt said the shootings followed a day on the farm during which everything went wrong. He said that he and his uncle argued in the afternoon and again in the evening.

Morris was shot as he prepared to go to bed. His wife was killed when she returned home from a PTA meeting.

Rheinschmidt, ordered held without bond, had been living with the Morris family and helping with the farm chores.

Rice said Rheinschmidt probably would be arraigned next week at which time a date for his jury trial would be set by Judge Lincoln Neppard.

CBS to Stop All Commercials Except Sponsor's

New York — Starting Jan. 1, the Columbia Broadcasting system will eliminate from television shows commercials advertising products other than the sponsor's.

The ban — latest CBS cleanup move — strikes at a little-publicized but profitable practice of charging manufacturers for having their products used as show prizes.

The new rule, issued Wednesday by Joseph H. Ream, CBS vice president in charge of standards and practices, ordered that all prizes be paid for out of a show's budget.

Also barred are free plugs for airlines and other transportation facilities.

The new rule is also expected to stop television personalities from using their programs to promote other commercial activities in which they have an interest.

A main program affected by the CBS policy will be Art Linkletter's "House Party," which identifies donors of gifts.

The rule was issued after the show business trade paper, Variety, carried a piece on the subject of airline plugs on the CBS show "What's My Line."

The National Broadcasting company confirmed that it was also studying the problem of television merchandising. The network has a number of shows which name gift manufacturers. They include "The Price Is Right" and "This Is Your Life."

Student Loan Program Passes Assembly After 10 Days of Quibbling

Land Condemnation Bill Also Wins Approval of Lower House

Madison — After 10 days of quibbling about details, the state assembly with only a handful of members dissenting Wednesday approved legislation that will substantially enlarge the state's program of making loans to financially handicapped but academically worthy students who want to enroll in institutions of higher learning.

Only nine members of the lower house voted against the bill sponsored by Gov. Nelson, including Assemblymen Prieb of Appleton and Graess of Sturgeon Bay.

Floor Leaders

Democratic floor leaders fought stubbornly and successfully against amendments intended to assure the private and church schools of Wisconsin some representation on the new state loan commission that will disburse the state funds, even when it appeared at times that the quarrel over the amendment might kill the legislation.

The assembly passed, 98 to 0, a revised bill streamlining laws covering land condemnation for highway right-of-way and similar public purposes. The bill was returned to an amending stage after Nelson declined to sign it in the form passed several months ago.

UW Committee Stands Against Loyalty Oath

Madison — The Education committee of the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents Wednesday night reaffirmed their stand against the student loan loyalty oath.

The group also recommended, however, that the regents continue to participate in grants by the federal government so that "the doors of the tax supported University of Wisconsin will not be closed to needy students who did not object to the oath."

Students who participate in the loans set up by the national defense education act must file affidavits of disbelieve, non-membership and non-support in any organization which advocates overthrow of the U.S. government by force or other illegal means.

Harvard, Princeton, Amherst and some other priver of shows which name gift vately supported schools remanufacturers. They include cently declared opposition to "The Price Is Right" and the oath and refused to accept the funds.

500 May Pay $50 a Plate For Dinner

Milwaukee — Five hundred persons are expected to pay $50 a plate at a dinner for Gov. Gaylord Nelson Wisconsin's highway toll Thursday night at which former President Harry Truman will be the main speaker.

The money raised is expected to be made available to Nelson for his expected reelection campaign in 1960.

Truman and Nelson are the only speakers on the program. Christ Seraphim, retiring Milwaukee county Democratic chairman, will be toastmaster and William J. Feldstein, dinner chairman, will introduce Truman.

Nelson plans to meet Truman upon his arrival shortly after noon. After a luncheon at the airport, the former president will rest before he appears at a late afternoon news conference.

A reception will precede the dinner.

Truman will address a convocation at the University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee Friday morning before leaving said for New York where he will speak at a dinner for Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt Friday night.

Child Dragged To Death Under Wheels of Bus

Milwaukee — The death of a Milwaukee child who was torn from her mother's arms and dragged beneath the wheels of a bus has raised Wisconsin's highway toll to 751, compared with 753 on this day a year ago.

Three-year-old Deborah Ann Wrzesinske was injured fatally Wednesday when she was torn from her mother's arm after her foot became caught in the rear door of a Transport company bus and she was thrown under the wheels.

Mrs. Warren Wrzesinske was carrying the girl, her only child, from the bus when the door closed. She was carrying packages in one arm and held the child around the waist with the other as they left the bus.

The mother said that the door closed on the child's foot and "the bus took off before she was released and fell to the pavement on her face." The bus dragged the child and then the rear wheels passed over her body, the mother said.

Erwin F. Helmuth, 61, the bus driver, drove the child to a hospital in the bus but she was dead upon arrival.

The Steel Strike Calls for Legislation

In view of the tremendous economic loss this country has suffered because of the steel strike, it is small wonder that demands for legislation to end the present strike if possible and to prevent future strikes have come from all sections of the country.

We believe the most rational and understandable demand has come from Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin's Eighth district. Byrnes points out that if the steel strike should be resumed in the middle of January after the 80-day recess required by the Taft-Hartley law, there would be a terrific pressure on Congress for legislative action. He says that legislation adopted in such circumstances is unlikely to be the most desirable. This is obviously true since Congress probably would be influenced by the immediate emergency, whereas the most desirable legislation would come out of a long view of the situation and at a time when people are not being punished by the shutdown. Quite obviously the legislation should not be drafted to meet the emergency caused by the steel strike alone but should be tailored to meet possible emergencies arising out of strikes in any critical industry important enough to cripple the entire economy.

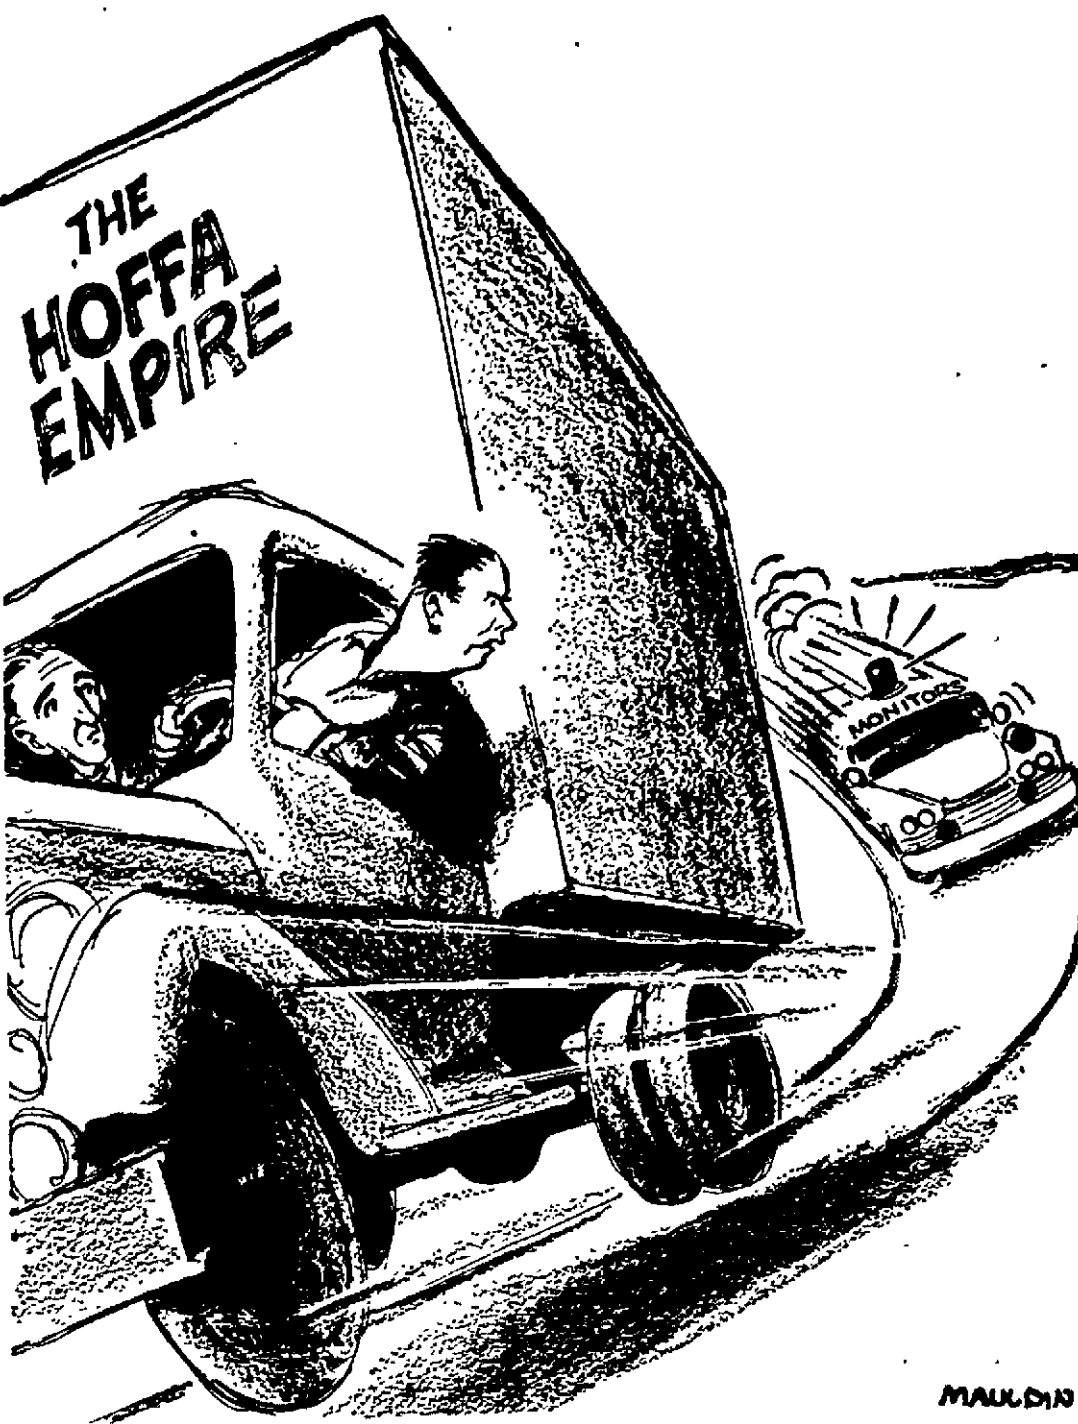

As Byrnes views the situation we have in the steel strike an impasse between two huge combinations which are, in effect, both monopolies. One is a monopoly of steel labor and the other a monopoly of steel management. Byrnes favors an investigation by the appropriate congressional committees which would explore the possibilities of legislation to protect the public against such deadlocks in the future. He proposes "to break up such a monopoly at the bargaining table on both sides without minimizing either management or labor's bargaining power."

The congressman says it is his firm hope that the steel strike will be settled before Congress returns in January so there will be a proper atmosphere for the consideration of legislation in the field. He thinks it would be unfortunate to have the congressional investigations made in an "environment of crisis." As Byrnes puts it, "The basic objective of any action Congress takes should be to keep the country's economy going. At the same time, it is my hope that we can avoid injecting the heavy hand of government into labor disputes to any greater degree than is necessary."

Spokesmen for both labor and management in the steel strike have made it plain that they are opposed to any further legislation at this time. Both sides believe the best solution can come out of bargaining without any interference from government. That is no doubt true in most cases. However, when we have a deadlock between such tremendous forces as the near monopoly of steel management and also the near monopoly of steel labor, the entire economy of the nation suffers. In fact there are great segments of the economy which are suffering tremendous losses but are absolutely helpless to defend themselves against the punishment that comes to them through the struggle between the two giants.

While Rep. Byrnes' statement may not have been intended as a warning to either labor or management in this struggle, nevertheless both sides would be well advised to heed his advice. If the strike is still on when Congress convenes and if there is still the stubborn refusal on both sides to bargain in good faith, it is a certainty that Congress will be forced by public demand to take up emergency legislation. There are many ways open to the public to defend itself against such tremendous economic losses. It would, of course, be unfortunate if the public desire to end the strike should bring about the adoption of emergency measures rather than laws that might evolve under more careful planning. The most satisfactory legislation, as Rep. Byrnes suggests, would be that calling for the least possible interference by government. Such legislation is more likely to be adopted when there is peace in the industry. That is something for the leaders on both sides to consider carefully.

New York State Has Rabbits With Colored Tails

From the Chicago Tribune

If Joel Chandler Harris were about today, he might have Uncle Remus tell a story about how old Brer Rabbit got a cottontail of shocking pink.

The conservation department of the state of New York has taken to trapping rabbits, dyeing their tails pink or lemon pie yellow, and then turning them loose again. The tail-first has to be washed in a detergent to remove the natural oils so that it will take the dye.

The object of this eccentric activity is to determine whether rabbits multiply more rapidly when given ideal environment. It is conceded that they multiply rapidly enough even if not given ideal environment, for the average lady rabbit has four litters between spring and autumn and is usually on the way to being a mother again within 24 hours of the birth of a litter.

The conservationists, however, by counting dyed and dyed tails, can project a rabbit census which suggests that twice as many rabbits as normal will be found in a given plot if given the stimulation of favorite foods.

Finance Committee

Job Can Change Men

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — There is an adage in the statehouse that the way to take the liberalism out of a legislator is to put him in a seat on the joint legislative finance committee. Liberalism is here used in the sense that it expresses an eagerness to spend public money.

There is truth in the saying, as the current deliberations of the legislative budget-writing committee abundantly show, and it may be supposed that it can be applied with equal accuracy to members of the appropriations committees of the congress or the finance committees of municipalities and counties. It is difficult for the average legislator to develop any comprehension of the uses to which state spending is put, even after years of service, and impossible for most members. The finance committee provides a quick introduction into the heart of the state budget of spending, and it is frequently a dismaying experience.

What follows is not intended to suggest that this state government is profligate, or more costly on the whole than modern governments in general. Possibly it is more prudently managed than most state governments, and that may be a tribute to the legislative auditing system.

Yet the typical finance committee member after listening for a couple of weeks to the typical testimony develops a skepticism, an impatience, an instinctive conservatism, frequently against his own wishes and to his occasional embarrassment.

These are average men, of average means, average tastes, average experiences. They cannot fail to make comparisons with affairs in their own offices or businesses, with their own families and acquaintances. Moreover, the size of the whole spending budget and the ever-present realization that the deficit must be extracted from the unwilling pockets of the voters, and that they must go home one day soon and explain the whole business, are depressing.

The daily deliberations of the committee just now are interesting examples of political psychology. With all the formalities, including roll call votes and stenographic minutes, with motions and seconds, the committee with straight faces will deny a $2,000 boost in the travel account of a small agency, or an increase of $480 to the Legislative Council for expenses, or a new car for the state board of health, or a new clerk for another agency, or new shelving for a library and other minutiae that wouldn't be significant if the committee stayed for six months and did nothing else.

Eventually, after help arrived, one by one they climbed back into their cars and continued on their way, with deer and Christmas trees lashed to tops and fenders. And it is unlikely that anybody thought about what a good job they had done.

Katherine B. Andrews
Appleton

ALTERNATIVE

The committee is dealing with a fiscal document involving about $200,000,000.

It is perfectly aware that there is some water in that amount, as it shows by the alacrity with which it shoots down the small requests for increases that occasionally come within range.

But how to isolate and identify the probably bigger potential savings within the huge lump sum appropriations? The committee is baffled, frustrated, and is increasingly showing its resentment. Some members talk longingly of cutting across the board, but they dare not. Yet the attentive reporter knows that only through such flat cuts, on the assumption that there is water everywhere, will any committee ever achieve a reversal in expenditure trends. That reporter also knows, of course, that such a cut will never come, and that accordingly the march of expenditures will continue indefinitely — or at least as long as the taxpayers' patience holds out.

These frustrations explain why some of the more sophisticated hands in the legislature decline membership on the finance committee.

Gov. Rockefeller Pays Us a Visit

The Republican state committee leadership is showing a striking sense of realism, as well as good manners, by its efforts to provide a cordial and respectful welcome for Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York on his brief reconnaissance tour of Wisconsin next week.

It is widely apparent that the Republican organization of this state is strongly inclined to back Vice President Nixon for the presidential nomination next year. In that preference it undoubtedly reflects the sentiments of most Republican voters of this state, according to the soundings of professional reporters and the pollsters over the last year or more.

But it also is apparent that in other parts of the country there are some reservations about the vice president's abilities, and more especially, a developing enthusiasm for the personality and the record of the vigorous and personally attractive chief executive of the Empire State. Any New York governor is, by the definition of his office, a prospective candidate for the presidential nomination of his party. Gov. Rockefeller is more than that. His meticulous reconnoitering lately has made it perfectly plain that he is tempted to challenge the vice president's position as the favorite, and that he is especially interested in sounding out the possibilities in those states which have early presidential primaries, including our own.

Gov. Rockefeller's name and face are better known than his qualities as leader and thinker. The average man thus far has little direct knowledge of the governor's philosophy or program, or what kind of a president he would make. His exposure to the country, including his venture into Wisconsin, is therefore an indispensable preface to his candidacy if he decides to contest for delegates with the vice president.

Mr. Nixon, on the other hand, is better known to the country than any vice president in our history, has had a stronger hand in the affairs of our government, domestically and internationally, than any other man who ever held his office, and no doubt will enter the campaign for delegates better equipped for the presidency in understanding and experience than any except a very small handful of leaders in the past who have aspired to it.

Gov. Rockefeller may not find here what he hopes to find, but he may be sure that he will discover audiences who are keenly interested in his message and himself as one of the indubitable comers in American politics.

Welsh Beat a Dead Horse

In all the present day emphasis upon self-determinism and the emergence of new nations from colonial status, some of those who can hardly be considered in bondage are making a lot of noise. The separatist party of Wales, called Plaid Cymru, is after seats in Parliament and has managed to get the other political parties to make promises to the Welsh.

Actually the Welsh have no church or law of their own and have been ruled by the British for centuries. But the Plaid Cymru is made up of Celts who want independence for its own sake and of poets and teachers who speak lovingly of the Welsh language and culture which they complain has been stifled by British rule. Besides the English do not spend here what we pay in taxes."

In its demands for self-government within the British Commonwealth and a seat in the United Nations, the Plaid Cymru has pressured the major parties of England into offering to establish a Secretary of State for Wales, home governmental control of education, health and housing, to speak of the Welsh "nation" in glowing terms and to brag about increased industry brought there.

It is likely that most Welshmen will be satisfied by these moves or even by these promises. But the Welsh are racially closely related to the Irish who regard political uproar as sufficient reason in itself for existing. The British at least have had a lot of experience in warding off such Celtic political harangues.

What Others are Saying

Labor Law Expensive for Unions, Not for Members

From The Wall Street Journal

Right now the unions, our Mr. Born reports, are in the process of conforming to the new labor reform law and the complaint is pretty general that it's costing them money.

One of the complaints is that each labor union official who handles dues money now must be individually bonded. The Teamsters, for example, point out that Jimmy Hoffa alone now will cost them $50,000. Mr. Hoffa must be bonded as president of the International, president of Local 299, chairman of the Michigan Conference of Teamsters, the Central States conference and trustee of Teamster welfare funds.

Of course the Teamsters could reduce the amount of Mr. Hoffa's bond by reducing the number of Mr. Hoffa's jobs; but that would only be robbing Peter, as the saying goes, to pay Paul. Somebody else would have to be bonded anyway, since congress obviously wants each union officer who handles union funds to realize his personal responsibility.

The other major complaint of union officers is about new printing costs. For example, Mr. Born tells us that the new law requires every labor organization to have a constitution and bylaws and while big national unions have them "many of their local units do not."

Well, somehow we can't develop too much sympathy for the union leaders in the matter of these new costs. For the costs come about because congress now requires the unions to protect members' rights that should have been protected all along. And we have an idea that, in terms of individual freedom for the rank and file, the new costs may turn out to be not nearly so high as the old ones.

Huge Toll Taken as Revolt Seen in French Dam Breaks Plane Seizure

The old Roman amphitheater, the town's main tourist attraction, was under water.

Lines of bodies lay in the morgues of Frejus and nearby towns.

Pierre Seraud, watchman at the dam, was picked up with his wife by helicopter this morning.

"About 9 o'clock I heard a terrific cracking," he said. "I screamed to my wife, 'we must save ourselves, the dam is breaking.' Forty-nine million cubic meters of water (nearly 10 billion gallons) broke loose at one blow, carrying everything with it. My wife and I were able to get to high ground where we spent a horrible night."

Sauver Gil, a railway worker, said he heard a mighty roar and the next thing he knew "my door was burst open by the surging water."

"By the time I got out of bed the water was at my shoulders," he continued. "My wife, her mother and I clung to a mattress. The water kept coming into the house and we were pressed against the ceiling before it started to go down."

Many bodies were discovered in a sea of mud on Verdun avenue in Frejus.

Rescued From Mill

Fifteen persons, including two children, clung to a shuddering old mill through the night and were saved just before the building collapsed.

The French government proclaimed the valley a disaster area.

The French aircraft carrier Lafayette, formerly the USS Langley, served as a floating hospital and flight deck for 15 rescue helicopters. The U. S. Air Force offered to parachute aid if necessary.

Top French officials rushed to the scene to assess the need for relief. The navy prepared initially to feed 10,000 people. Army engineers loaded equipment on boats to get emergency housing started. The French radio appealed for money for relief.

The navy patrolled the shore of the Mediterranean, which was strewn for miles with wreckage, seeking survivors. It was feared many victims had been washed out to sea.

The disaster disrupted rail and telephone traffic throughout southern France. The coastal rail line was swept more than a mile from its roadbed.

Irrigation Dam

One stunned Frejus official noted that the valley was one of the richest on the coast and said: "I'm afraid only the rocks will be left."

The 22-foot-thick dam was erected for irrigation six years ago.

"There is nothing left," said a rescue worker. "The neighboring farms were carried away with their occupants. The road which led to the dam through the valley is no longer passable. Everything has been swept away and what remains is covered with mud."

A policeman was decapitated by the blades of a rescue helicopter he was directing to a landing.

Although the valley is set in the midst of the luxurious Riviera vacationland, it has been mostly inhabited by farmers and by fishermen living along the rocky coast. It was seldom visited by tourists.

Terrified families were swept downstream, struggling to stay together. Many had just gone to bed when the flood struck. One 85-year-old woman floated seven hours on her bedroom dresser. An old man walking his dog was swept away in a second.

Use Rubber Boats

The hospital at Frejus—luckily on high ground—was jammed with injured and survivors suffering from shock and exposure. The morgue at the hospital was lined with bodies.

Rescue workers in rubber boats tried to reach isolated houses and bring the injured and sick to shelter.

Agonized cries for help were heard throughout the night.

No help was immediately available for the villages upstream. It took many hours to get the first rescue teams there, and the weary rescuers found many people missing and survivors often wandering in dazed silence.

Frejus was without electricity, running water, gas or telephone service. Jerry-built telephone lines were laid to the police headquarters, which became a battlelike command post directing rescue work.

Villages Hit Hard

Frejus, about four miles below the Malpasset dam, suffered less than the isolated villages up the valley. It was feared no houses were left standing along the upper reaches of the river. The wall of water was 6 feet high when it reached the town. Upstream it may have towered 40 feet in narrow stretches of the valley.

The dam was sorely strained after the heavy rains. The spillways were opened wider only yesterday after a helicopter survey warned engineers of impending danger. At 9:45 p. m. the dam burst.

"We thought several trains were roaring down the tracks at once," said a still shivering survivor.

"It struck like a hammer blow at everything in its path after the dam burst," said another.

Bridges along the normally peaceful river were carried away. The naval base at St. Raphael was under several feet of water. A half dozen light planes were washed into the sea, and about 50 automobiles and other vehicles lost.

Passengers Rescued

A 2-car diesel train from Nice was trapped. Just before dawn rescue workers brought off all the passengers. They were huddled in one of the cars with water seeping above the floor.

French sailors, police and firemen toured Frejus in rubber boats to rescue families from the upstairs of flooded homes.

Cries for help directed the rescue workers in the darkness.

"Save me... I am about done," came one call near police headquarters, then silence.

The weather along the Riviera once more was clear and cool after the 5-day siege of torrential rains and high winds.

Many fashionable seaside restaurants around Nice were shattered by the Mediterranean's waves. At Monaco about 40 boats sank in the storm, including one belonging to Prince Rainier.

The finance committee recommended passage of the budget and at the same time proposed that it be financed by one of the two plans offered by Nelson to raise money to meet it. The state can not go into debt and can spend only as much as it expects to raise.

Nelson's Proposals

One of the tax plans offered by Nelson and recommended for passage sets up a withholding plan for collection of state income taxes and for a 1-cent increase in the cigarette tax, a 15 per cent tax on other tobacco products and a franchise tax on banks and savings and loan associations. The present income surtax of 20 per cent would be repealed.

The other Nelson tax plan recommended provides for a were C47s. One well informed source said all the planes were loaded with air force officers.

Both versions agreed the air force planes took off northward in the direction of the industrial city of Belo Horizonte, 210 miles north northwest of Rio, and Brazil's second largest inland city after Sao Paulo.

Rio and Sao Paulo, cities of more than three million inhabitants each, and Belo Horizonte were all reported going about their normal business. Official circles said there were no signs of trouble or tension in them.

Confers With Advisers

Kuzitschek got the first word of the trouble from his aide, Brig. Francisco de Melo. After alerting Lott, the president called in some of his closest advisers, including Armando Falcão, minister of justice (his ministry controls the police); Ernani Amaral Peixoto, minister of public works and former ambassador to the United States; and Abelardo Jurema, majority leader in the house of deputies.

Rumors that air force officers had seized a squadron of planes and flown them to Belo Horizonte swept this city after reports arrived that a small privately owned plane was missing from the Belo Horizonte airport.

The airport director there said the plane was missing, had probably been stolen and that this was the cause of the rumors. Capt. Carlos Pinto ad Silva, director of Rio's political police, said he had heard the rumors of trouble, but that they were not true.

Finance Committee to Introduce Cheese Bill

Madison — The legislature's joint finance committee voted Wednesday to introduce a bill that would exempt from personal property taxes cheese being aged in warehouses.

Assemblyman Everett Bidwell (R-Portage) said a 1959 law covering taxation of property in warehouses would affect natural cheese valued at $200,000. He said this wasn't the intention of the bill's supporters.

Bidwell said warehouse aging of cheese is a step in its manufacture and not storage. The committee voted 11-0 to introduce the bill.

three-fourths of 1 per cent increase in each income tax bracket, plus the other tax increases in the withholding package.

Sen. Kirby Hendee, R-Milwaukee, and other GOP members of the finance committee explained that their votes against the budget were motivated by a determination to wait for a report from a special study committee. This is not expected to be available until next spring.

Two Wisconsin Senators' Wives Not on Payroll

Washington — The wives of both Sens. Alexander Wiley and William Proxmire of Wisconsin work long hours in their husbands' offices. But neither is on the payroll, official records showed this week.

"I do everything in the office from soup to nuts," smiled Mrs. Wiley. "But I never have been and never will be on the office payroll. We work as a team."

Mrs. Wiley said she usually goes to the Wiley office suite on the fourth floor of the old Senate Office building at 8:15 a.m. each day. This is before many of the regular staffers arrive.

"I feel this is my contribution to my husband's job," Mrs. Wiley said.

Mrs. Proxmire said she spends much more time in the office when her husband is in Wisconsin than she does when the senate is in session.

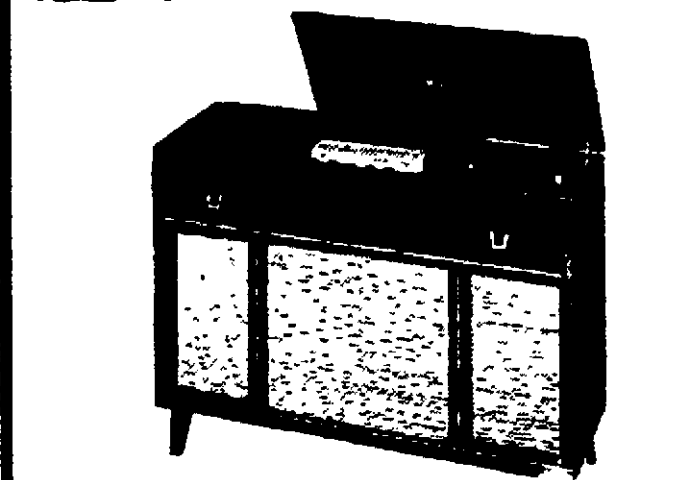

"Bill has been gone pretty much since September," Mrs. Proxmire said, "and I just fill in here when things need to be done. Besides it keeps me from being lonely."

Councilmen Doctor Employees' Pay Plan

Assure Annual Review Sought By Schlieve

The city council Wednesday doctored the new pay plan for city employees before adopting it.

Council action: Assured annual review of minimum wage rates, as asked by Robert Schlieve, Teamster union leader.

Made the present longevity pay for extended years of service part of the plan, as suggested by Ald. Schneider.

Pointer

Mueller

In the discussion, Alderman Pointer and Mueller lost a move to have the entire plan referred back to the finance committee for more study.

Mueller said he understood there would be a committee of the whole (informal) meeting of the council before a recommendation was made, and he stills wants one. The plan "stinks in some respects," he said.

Cites Possible Loss
Ald. Bogan said all council members were informed at the last council of the time and place at which the finance committee would decide the issue. "Why didn't you attend?" he asked Mueller.

Mueller acknowledged he should have been at the meeting, but still insisted the committee of the whole session should be held.

Bogan later explained that not to adopt the plan might mean loss of retroactive pay for employees. Money to defray cost is in this year's budget and will revert to the general fund at the end of the year, he said.

"Oh, no," demanded Ald. Pointer, "That's an earmarked fund."

Not Earmarked
City Atty. Jury said the money is not earmarked and would revert to the general fund, as Bogan had said.

The plan calls for distribution of $29,632.86 in back pay to all employees who worked anytime after April 1. City Clerk Broehm said. If the state bureau of personnel charges $2,300, as the city has been notified, the plan will require $32.86 more than the $31,880 held for the adjustment, he said.

Ald. Malmstrom started discussion by acknowledging Schlieve has a point in saying lack of revision in base rates could cut an employee's buying power. Bogan said Schlieve called him about the point; and the council certainly will go along with the idea.

Correct Errors Later

Malmstrom said that while he has confidence in state bureau impartiality, he admits some mistakes could have been made. "If there are glaring errors, we can correct them later."

Ald. Tews took the same position. "In order to make changes, we feel we have to adopt the policy first," he said.

Malmstrom said he would submit a resolution calling for annual review, but Ald. Groh said it should be included right away. It was, by voice vote.

Bogan, finance committee chairman, said the finance committee planned to include the longevity provisions later, but he had no objections to Schneider's and Ald. Stumpf's demand for immediate inclusion.

Letter Forwarded

When Schlieve's letter was read as an item of new business, it was suggested it be "received and filed," but Malmstrom said one or two points might not have been covered and it probably should be studied by the finance committee.

Schlieve in his letter had made a point of the low wage rates for some jobs. Distribution of the retroac-

Appleton Residents Taken to Hospital By Calumet Police

Three Appleton people were taken to St. Elizabeth hospital by Calumet county police after a 2-car accident on Highway 10 in the town of Menasha about 5:48 p.m. Wednesday.

Injured were Mrs. Robert Kluba, 28, 206 E. Harding street, driver of one of the cars; Steven A. Gerhardt, 18, 1221 E. Fremont street, and his passenger, David Fuller, 19, YMCA, Appleton.

Mrs. Kluba was going south on Highway 10, when her car was struck in the rear by Gerhardt as she was attempting to turn left onto Harding street. She said she had just put her hand on the turn signal lever when Gerhardt's car struck her car.

Gerhardt braked his car, he said. Skid marks indicated his car traveled 43 feet before impact. He has been charged with driving too fast for conditions by Winnebago county police.

Mrs. Kluba suffered a neck injury and Gerhardt a cut forehead. Fuller suffered bruises.

Salary Hikes for College Teachers Cut by Committee

Some Democrats Break With Nelson to Slash $2,000,000

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The $2,000,000 pay boost promised by Gov. Nelson to teachers in state colleges and universities was denied by the legislature's joint finance committee Wednesday.

Committee members admitted they are worried about voter reactions to state budget troubles and tax prospects, and several Democrats on the committee refused to follow Nelson's lead that would have raised salary levels 20 percent for the current biennium.

The pay boost cut decreased by nearly half the increases outlined in the second-year budget submitted by Nelson.

Committee members maneuvered for more than an hour and went through more than a dozen votes before they came to their decision. The eagerness with which the legislators explained their attitudes also indicated their anxiety about the political repercussions of the salary issue.

On the final roll-call vote nine members voted against the salary raises, and only four, all Democrats, stood behind the governor who maintained the state only can assure continued high quality of teaching by boosting pay substantially.

The governor conspicuously failed to convince a couple of his nominal Democratic allies according to their speeches.

Democrat Unconvinced
Said Earl W. Warren, a Racine assemblyman and a factory worker:

"We've been sold a bill of goods. The alumni get after you during the weekends to give these professors all they are asking and nobody knows what the score is because we have a new finance committee every year."

When Warren voted for the pay boosts in spite of his remarks, the committee members roared in laughter, and he added:

"I guess I bought that bill of goods I was talking about."

Farmer Speaks Out
More angry was Ben Riehle, also a Democrat and a Marathon county farmer who has made speeches at every opportunity about the declining economic fortunes of the farmer.

"Some of these fellows will get bigger salaries than the governor," he grumbled. "When are we going to think of the taxpayers? I'll vote for everything the university needs, but not these terrible increases in pay," he said.

Earlier, the legislature, at the initiative of the governor, granted an 8 per cent general salary increase to the state institution teachers and authorized an equivalent of 4 per cent for merit increases to be distributed at the discretion of the school administrator.

Tuition Raises
The legislature already has voted for student fee increases to take up a part of the cost of the salary boosts.

College and university spokesmen had expected strong resistance to their requests, but had hoped to work out a compromise for a 4 per cent boost for next year. But even that prospect failed, although in a closer vote, as the finance committee continued the struggle to cut projected state spending below the governor's recommended level that he has called "bare bones."

Pretty Marbleized Paper Made With Water Colors

BY CAPPY DICK

If you like to use water colors, you'll have fun marbleizing paper. It's very easy to do and you can get all sorts of effects with different color combinations.

First, select a piece of smooth, glossy paper — the smoother and glossier the better. Rough pencil writing paper will absorb too much color and is not satisfactory for this fun project.

Crush the paper into a wad (Figure 1), squeezing it into a tight ball as hard as you can. If you do not think it is crushed enough the first time, smooth out the paper and crush it again in your hands. The idea is to make many, many little, irregular creases in the paper.

When it has become thoroughly wrinkled, you are ready to apply paint to the paper. Mix up a deep color in a saucer or the lid of your paint box. Brush the paint lightly over the entire surface of the paper (Figure 2). Let the paint dry thoroughly. Then smooth the paper out and press it with a warm—not hot—flat iron.

You will find the pressed paper is not only colored, but is filled with little lines of deeper color that make it look like marble.

If you want to use more than one color, crush the paper once and brush it with a color (green, for example). When the paint has dried, crush the paper again and apply another color—red, perhaps. When the paper has dried again, crush it a third time and apply a third color, such as blue. All three colors will show up in the creases because each time you crush the paper new creases will form and will absorb the new color. (Copyright, 1959)

Social Security

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. My company has a compulsory retirement plan for those employees who reach age 65. How early should I visit my social security office?

A. You may file your application up to three months before you retire.

Q. I understand that I should file my claim for social security benefits two or three months in advance of retirement, but I have not yet received the birth certificate which I wrote to my hometown several months ago. Should I wait until it comes? Suppose it doesn't come?

A. You needn't wait. If you file your application for benefits now, your social security office may be able to suggest some other document which cannot be used to prove your age if a birth certificate appears to be unobtainable.

Q. What papers will I need to take with me when I file my claim for social security retirement benefits?

A. Bring some proof of your age such as a birth certificate, baptismal certificate, old insurance policy or other old record showing your age, and your Form W-2 or income tax return showing your 1958 income. Also don't forget your social security card.

The social security administration office is in the courthouse annex, 401 S. Elm street, Appleton.

3 Appleton Youngsters Take Over Business of Old-Time Post Cards

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A rudely lettered sign in the office of Gordon J. Hawley, a stamp dealer of Appleton, reads thus: OLD TIME POST CARDS—Three for 10c.

The sign attests to an administrative error on the part of Hawley, plus some business judgment of his three children, Thomas, 11, Suzanne, 9, and Terry, 8.

Hawley recently made a bid on a mail auction for stamps but inadvertently put down the wrong number of the items he wished to purchase. Instead of purchasing for re-sale some rare stamps, Hawley found that he had come into possession of some 500 old-time post cards dating somewhere between 1900 and 1910.

Few of the cards contained postage stamps. Hawley announced this fact at home and agreed that he was "stuck" with his purchase.

Kids in Business

"Dad," said Suzanne, "we'll take them off your hands and go into the post card business ourselves."

It would be well if the reporter could now announce that from this scant beginning a great industry has arisen. But it is not so. The fact is this: The cards languished in the piles at the father's office. A few people bought a few post cards and the rest remain there.

The Hawley children are hopeful, of course, that their business judgment has not been awry. But the rude sign, painstakingly printed with yellow crayon, has attracted no rush of customers. The kids can't understand the calloused eye of the public. The cards, they will tell you, are so very pretty!

They are, indeed. Many are from Florida cities, which, in 1900, were tiny communities with muddy streets and primitive facilities. The Florida of today is very different from the Florida of 60 years ago.

Old Indian Village

There is, for example, a colored post card showing an Indian village complete with Indians, within the present city of Fort Lauderdale. From Charleston, S. C., there is a photograph of "the brand new administration building in the Navy yard."

There also is a colored picture of the Miami courthouse — an old building then, and far too small for today's bustling Miami. Ladies on the street are wearing the long skirts and the huge hats then in vogue.

From Augusta, Ga., there is a postcard depicting the U. S. post office of the day. There's a picture of the courthouse in Bartown, Fla. There's a photograph of a bullet scarred tree on the Bull Run battlefield of the Civil war, "a silent witness of the nation's conflict."

Barney Oldfield

Among the cards, there is an action shot of Barney Oldfield in a primitive auto breaking the record for the mile race. From Alucha, Fla., there's a shot of the old courthouse. There's the Ocala courthouse, too, and an old one from Fort Meyers — all now replaced.

There's a photograph of the old Union depot at Jacksonville which has captured, too, a line of horse-drawn taxicabs. From New Smyrna, there's a picture of an ancient pile of seashells — 20 feet tall — mute evidence of the appetite for seafood of the early Spanish explorers and the Indians before them.

Also, there is a picture of the Libby prison in Richmond where thousands of Yankee soldiers were held and brutalized during the Civil war. The old prison was dismantled in 1892.

Old Churches, Hotels

There are pictures of old churches; small hotels now grown great; historic times and places; of the unveiling of statues of Jefferson Davis and Robert E. Lee (in the south, who else?)

One of the post cards is a colored picture of the old Blandford church in Petersburg, Va., built in 1735.

That card contains a 4-stanza verse which was found written on the church wall in 1841 by an unknown author. The poem is so very good that it must have been written by a fine literateur. One verse goes thus:

How doth ambition's hope take wing
How droops the spirit now;
We hear the city's distant din,
The dead are mute below.

The sun that shone upon their paths
Now gilds their lonely graves;
The zephyrs which once fanned their brows
The grass above them waves.

Hawley, who operates the Ace Tri-city Stamp company at 104 E. College avenue, and lives with his family at 3216 N. Meade street, thinks that if the children have entered this into business, it would be well for their initiative if they had a partial success for their effort.

Charlie Has Plan

But this reporter has a plan by which the Hawley children (heads up, you three!) can make a whopping success of their first business venture — and charge, say, $1 for each of the cards instead of their

Gifts Given To Lawrence

$8,000 to Improve Viking Room;
$3,000 for Chapel

Two gifts totaling $11,000 have come to Lawrence college recently for the improvement of public rooms, President Douglas M. Knight has announced.

The largest gift of $8,000 has come anonymously from a Fox Cities resident for improvement of the Viking room in the basement of the Memorial union, which has remained in a relatively unfinished state since completion of the building. Plans for the room include installing a fireplace on the east wall, partitioning the north third of the room for a game area and installing wall booths and a coke bar.

The Viking room was the temporary home of the Lawrence college theater before the Music-Drama center was finished, and was the location of the arena style plays presented over the last several years. A large mural of Lawrence college life, painted by students in the advanced art classes, was placed in the room several years ago.

The second gift of $3,000 will provide new audio equipment for Memorial chapel, where the microphone set-up present asking price of 3 and one-third cents.

Those cards are collector's items. The once-little hotels which are now large ones would gladly pay for an old colored picture of their early times. The many churches in the pile of post cards would like to have early photographs from their other days. City historians would be delighted to have some of the cards showing early scenes in their cities — post office, courthouse, city hall, private dwellings, parks and street scenes.

A little research (at your Appleton library) for addresses of today would give you young business people some contacts. A letter of description to persons who might be interested in your old cards is sure to reap you a tidy profit. Y'r welcome.

Macmillan Regime Assailed by Labor On Racial Relations

London —(U)— Labor party leaders launched a new attack on the Macmillan government Tuesday night over race relations in British Africa and South Africa.

The laborites introduced a motion in the house of commons declaring "strong disapproval of racial intolerance and discrimination."

It called on the conservative government to "act on all occasions, particularly in the United Nations, in a manner wholly consistent with this declaration."

The move followed heated exchanges in parliament over Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's coming African tour, aimed particularly at South Africa's apartheid policy. Macmillan is to visit Ghana, Nigeria, central Africa and the Union of South Africa in January.

Labor's reference to the United Nations obviously sprang from Britain's opposition—with France and Portugal—to a U. N. motion last month condemning South Africa's racial policies. Sixty-seven countries supported the motion.

Time Up, Policemen Leave Accident Scene

Toledo, Ohio —(U)— Two clock-watching patrolmen, Charles Hunt and Melvin Young, were suspended for three days after they stopped their investigation of a collision promptly when their tour ended at 3:10 p.m., leaving a traffic jam behind them.

Don't Leave All your prize packages under the Christmas tree . . . serve this Cranberry Butter Crunch Pie for dessert during the holidays. If it's made in a spring-form pan, it can be unmolded readily for an elegant display at a festive buffet.

For a New and Different cranberry relish, try this recipe. Simmer about 20 minutes one pound of cranberries, one-fourth cup each of cider vinegar and water, two cups sugar, one teaspoon whole cloves and two whole allspice (both tied in cheesecloth), and two cinnamon sticks.

This Delightful Cranberry Streusel Pie is a wonderful holiday dessert that has the advantage of being easy to make. Here's how to do it: first mix up and break a pound of whole cranberry sauce in large bowl. Then stir in one-fourth cup cornstarch; one tablespoon sugar; one teaspoon lemon juice; dash salt, and one cup pineapple tidbits. Turn mixture into unbaked pie shell. With fork, blend together one-third cup each of firmly packed brown sugar, flour and butter. Sprinkle over pie filling. Bake in hot oven for 30 to 40 minutes.

Cranberries Back in Favor Again

Cranberries Team With apples to brighten the holiday bird as both a stuffing and decorative platter trim. Here roast chicken is wreathed in Christmas crimson . . . circles of Jonathan apples set with cranberry jewels. The fruits also are used in the dressing.

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

The ruby red cranberry, rich in American tradition, is back on Fox Cities food counters in time for the holiday season ahead. . . Uncle Sam, with the help of the cranberry distributors themselves, is making it possible for homemakers to be certain that the cranberries offered for sale are perfectly safe.

The berries don't have to be labelled to the effect that they've been inspected and approved, but they can be . . . cranberries that have been tested and cleared by federal laboratories may carry the label, "examined and passed by the Food and Drug Administration of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare" . . . cranberries tested by non-government laboratories which used approved federal methods are eligible to wear the label, "certified safe under a plan approved by the U. S. Government for cranberries" . . .

This small tart fruit is a legacy from America's earliest days . . . clipper ships out of Gloucester, New Bedford and other ports once carried supplies of fresh cranberries to help keep their crews fit . . . modern health-conscious cooks may note that there's more vitamin C in unstrained rather than strained homemade cranberry sauce. . .

Way back in the 16th century, Indians pounded these bright berries along with dried deer meat into a pulp, then shaped the mixture into cakes and dried them in the sun . . . today the berries have become a year-round favorite for many dishes, thanks to modern processing.

Besides the popular jelly and sauce, there are many ways to use cranberries. Here are a few suggestions for holiday time.

Apple-Cranberry Stuffing
1 1/2 quarts soft bread cubes
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup whole raw cranberries
1 cup coarsely chopped apples
1 cup melted butter

Toast bread cubes until slightly crisp. Sprinkle sugar and salt over cranberries and apples; mix thoroughly. Combine with bread cubes. Toss lightly with melted butter. Spoon stuffing into 6-pound chicken. Recipe makes about one and one-half quarts of stuffing.

Cranberry-Apple Pancakes
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cornstarch
1/2 cup water
1/3 cup orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 small apple, pared and thinly sliced
1 1/2 cups fresh cranberries dash nutmeg
pancake mix
Combine sugar and cornstarch. Add water, orange juice, rind and apple slices. Cook, stirring constantly over low heat until mixture thickens, about five minutes. Add cranberries and nutmeg. Simmer five minutes or until berries pop. Keep warm.

Prepare pancakes. Spoon hot cranberry-filling over pancakes. Roll pancakes up and spoon additional cranberry mixture over top. Serve hot.

Turkey or Chicken Cranberry Loaf

1 cup diced turkey or chicken
1 cup diced celery
1 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup mayonnaise
1 loaf unsliced bread
6 tablespoons butter
2/3 cup cranberry jelly
4 packages (3 ounces each) cream cheese
1 cup milk

Combine diced turkey or chicken, celery, salt and mayonnaise. Using a sharp knife, remove crusts from top, sides and ends of bread loaf. Cut into four lengthwise slices. Spread first slice with one-fourth of butter (1 1/2 tablespoons) and then one-third cup of cranberry jelly. Spread second slice with another third of butter; place on top of jelly layer, buttered side down. Cover top slice with turkey or chicken mixture, over which place third slice of bread. Spread top with one-third of butter and then one-third cup cranberry jelly. Spread remaining bread slice with rest of butter and place buttered side down over cranberry layer.

Frosted and Fluted With cream cheese, this Turkey or Chicken Cranberry Loaf makes a good-looking and delicious food for holiday parties. Very attractive, of excellent flavor and easy to prepare, it should be prepared well in advance to give the loaf time to chill.

Cranberry Butter Crunch Pie
Crust
1 cup softened butter
1 cup sugar
1 cup sifted flour
1 cup chopped pecans

Mike all ingredients together in cake pan. Spread evenly over bottom of pan and bake in 400-degree oven for eight minutes. Stir mixture with fork; continue baking for seven minutes longer. Take from oven; immediately stir with spoon. Set aside half mixture for crumbly top. While mixture still hot, spread rest over the pan and press down firmly to form bottom crust. Cool.

Filling
1 pkg. orange flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 pkg. frozen cranberry-orange relish (10 1/2 ounces)
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup ice water
1 cup nonfat dry milk
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 cup diced marshmallows

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add relish, lemon juice and salt. Chill until partially set. Chill in freezer, half-cup ice water in small mixing bowl; also chill beaters. When chilled thoroughly, take bowl of ice water from freezer; gradually beat dry milk into ice water. When mixture begins to thicken, continue beating while adding sugar and lemon on juice. Whip until thick and over bottom of pan and bake fluffy. Add marshmallows (they may be miniature variety) to chilled jellied cranberry. Fold in whipped milk into mixture. Pour into crust and then sprinkle crumbs over top. Chill until set.

Cranberry - Apple Pancakes are tempting indeed. Here the savory fruit and berry mixture is spread onto rich pancakes, then the cakes are rolled with more of the sauce spooned on top.

Chorus To Give Messiah

A traditional opening to the Christmas musical season in Appleton is the 43rd annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" planned for 7:30 p.m. Sunday in Memorial chapel by the Lawrence choral society, under the direction of LaVahn Maesch.

Evidence of the "Messiah's" popularity is this statement by musicologist Robert Meyers: "Since its first appearance on April 12, 1742, Handel's 'Messiah' has been performed more steadily in English-speaking countries than any other choral work in existence. Its muscular Christianity has thrilled thousands to whom Hamlet and Macbeth are little more than names. Generations have lived and died in the firm faith that 'Messiah' embraces all that is good and great in music, and though it has passed its bicentennial, its popularity continues unabated with thousands who cannot hum one of its great themes."

24 Days' Work
Handel composed his great oratorio in a period of despondency and debt. Once begun, he devoted 24 days of intense work on it, and then offered to direct it in a charity performance in Dublin in April, 1742. Both the rehearsal performance and the official debut were successful, as indicated by this newspaper account: "... it was universal so well that it gave universal satisfaction to all present; and was allowed by the judges, to be the finest composition of music that ever was heard and the sacred Words as properly adapted for the occasion."

Director Maesch has indicated that the 1959 performance will contain the same sections and material as last year. Among the favorites to be included are the "Hallelujah chorus," and the airs "Why Do the Nations so Furiouly Rage Together," "O Thou That Tellest Good Tidings to Zion," and "If God Be For Us, Who Can Be Against Us."

Soloists appearing on the program include soprano Nadine Eisner, contralto Evelyn Reynolds, baritone Richard Schreiber, and tenor Lawrence Lane.

Tickets for the program are available at Bellings pharmacy.

Impish Small Boys Model for Cherubs

BY VIVIAN BROWN

The Most Precious little cherub on a Christmas card is likely to be an imp in real life. So says greeting card artist Sheila Beckett, whose angelic little Christmas card people are modeled by her sons, Sean, 3, and Ian, 13.

"Oh, they don't sit still while I draw," she laughs. "I just try to remember how little Sean looks when he's asleep and how Ian used to look as a small boy, and I look at old photographs, and I go on from there."

Sean is at that interesting age, climbing all over Mom as she tries to draw, getting into the paints, racing away with the brushes. Aside from that he's an angel. A new dog, a basset hound, has been introduced on the family scene and Sean is paying him some attention.

Sheila draws everything from greeting cards to nudes. She does ribald readers and children's books. She likes to do costume drawings, because she's always had a yen to be a fashion designer or ballet dancer.

She has been painting for 13 years — displays, brochures, billboards, backgrounds for windows in Los Angeles, where she had moved from Portland, Ore. — until she began the Christmas cards about seven years ago. She was born in Canada but lived in Ireland, her mother's home, during her teens.

"I always did my own Christmas cards and someone suggested I do them for others. I enjoy it more than anything else. I'm not really a painter, though. I draw and then sort of fill in the drawing with paint," she says.

Sheila's rich celestial scenes are best sellers each year. A typical one is a madonna-like figure, colorful flowers and a number of gay, angelic fair-haired children dancing about.

The family lives on two and a half acres in Ossining, N. Y. Her artist husband, John Frederick Smith, has turned to commercial photography, but can still help her with perspective in her drawing, she says.

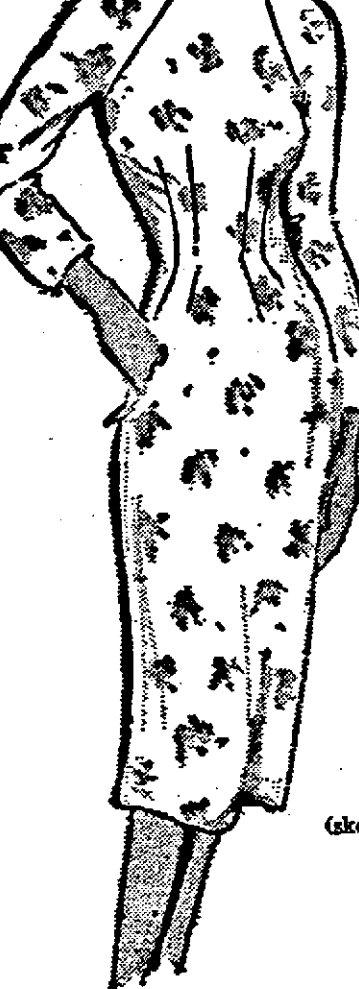

Ian shows promise of becoming an artist, but flirts with photography now like Dad.

Miss Evon Lou Stingle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Stingle, 1807 S. Carpenter street, became the bride of Dennis Tiede, son of Mr. and Mrs. La Vern Tiede, 1715 S. Jefferson street, Saturday at Sacred Heart Catholic church.

Designing Woman

BY ELIZABETH HILLYER

New in Rattan

Rattan has so much individuality — is so different from other materials — that furniture of it might manage to stay popular a long time without changing style. But it does change every season, and the best collections have a lively new look every time.

Designer John Wisner, A.I.D., whose new furniture is previewed in the sketch, is well known for the high style and practicality he gives to rattan. His collections include widely varied sizes and types of pieces, always enough big new tables, high- and low-backed chairs and striking accent pieces. Finishes vary from richly dark through lighter brown to light stains and lacquer colors. This newest furniture couldn't be more striking in a new lightly glazed white finish and vibrant yellow upholstery covers, interspersed with the rattan in the vibrant yellow and the fabric in white. Note the new space-saver — the corner table which tucks a length of sofa-bed under it.

The first thing a professional decorator does to plan a room is to make a floor plan — and so can you with Elizabeth Hillyer's Furniture Arrangement Kit. Included is full explanation of how easy it is and the furniture cut-outs you need — 126 of them — plus pointers on good arrangement. Start this valuable kit toward your mailbox today — send 50 cents with your request to Elizabeth Hillyer, in care of this newspaper. Please allow approximately 3 weeks for delivery. # Suggestion Of Present Applauded

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: For the past year I have been driving to and from work with a man who lives a few blocks away from me. He is a very nice person and often puts himself out to wait for me when I am a little late leaving the office. I would like very much to show my appreciation for his kindness. With Christmas not too far off I was wondering if it would be proper to buy him a small, impersonal gift. I would like to do anything that might embarrass him. I might add that this man is married and his wife is a stranger to me.

Answer: Anything you can think of that he would like for his office desk, or possibly his car, or a carton of cigarettes if he smokes, would be a suitable gift.

Where To Go?

Dear Mrs. Post: When a boy asks a girl to go out with him, is he supposed to have definite plans for the evening's entertainment, or must he ask the girl where she would like to go?

Answer: When asking a girl to go with him for the first time a boy usually has some definite place in mind, such as the movies, a dance, a hockey match, etc. When they go out often together he would ask her where she would like to go.

Old Note Paper

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have just moved to another part of the city. We have quite a lot of note paper marked with our old address. It is rather expensive paper and I hate to discard it. Would it be in good taste to draw a line through the old address

HIS AND HERS —

BY MURIEL STAFFORD, GRAPHOLOGIST

HE one of my girl friends
SHE done this day.

Still Waters

"... For some time your column has intrigued me, so I thought I would send along a sample of my writing and one of my girl friend's. I am quite interested in this young lady and would like to see what a comparative analysis of our handwritings would show."

Women who write like your girl friend can "keep 'em guessing" even after 50 years of marriage!

She might be especially difficult for someone like you to understand. Your letters are angular, very right-slanted. You are sincere almost to a fault. You may be inclined to say anything that comes to mind without much concern for discretion or even the feelings of the listener.

Perhaps her restraint is part of her fascination for you. A magnetic personality and guardedness are evident in her writing's heavy pressure plus left slant and the cautious formation of letters.

Don't ever think you can be sure what this girl is really thinking or planning. She takes no chances and is very much locked up within her own desires. She does exactly what she wishes and when she wishes. She can make a "maybe" sound like a promise and a promise sound like a vow, even when she has no intention of doing as she says.

This extreme observation is because she combines her slowly written, left-slanted script with retouched letters ("s" and "d") and sometimes important parts of letters are missing as in the upstroke of "j". An enigmatic nature is beneath her impenetrable script.

You are quite critical. Rather than contradict you she is more likely to say "Yes dear," then do and think as she wishes. Know this now so that it won't astonish you later.

(Miss Stafford welcomes letters from her readers. They cannot be acknowledged but the most interesting ones will be used in her column.) (Copyright, 1959)

Wait for Girl Friend to Send Invitation, Ann Tells Reader

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN: I was popular in college and belonged to the best sorority on campus. My dearest friend lives 350 miles away. We've both been married seven years and have families. The girl married very well. They have a gorgeous home. (I've seen pictures.) She and her husband have been to this city three times in the past five years, and we always have an evening with them. She has said repeatedly "Please come visit us. We'd love to have you. Our home is yours."

This is the record: In May of 1957 I wrote that we'd like to come up for a week. She replied they were going to Traverse City, Mich. In December of '57 I offered to bring my little family up there for Christmas. She phoned to say they were taking the children to visit their grandparents in Minneapolis. In June of '58 I suggested we come up for New Years. She wired to say they were just leaving for Europe. This year I'd love to spend Christmas up there but I'm afraid of another turndown. All her excuses have been legitimate. Shall I try once more?—No Name

DEAR NO NAME: Your friend knows how to get in touch with you. Wait for an invitation—but don't hold your breath.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am nine years old. I am a boy. I read your column every day. I don't have any troubles. I just have one question I would like an answer to. I hope you know the answer.

What does "Lace Curtain Irish" mean? Thank you. —Patrick
Dear Patrick: Lace Curtain Irish are people of Irish descent who have fruit in the house when nobody is sick. You're welcome.

dad wasn't at home. Bob and I could sit on the patio or on the front porch. But now that winter is here we will freeze. I know my mother would blow her top if I sat out in front of the house in Bob's car. The porch and patio are out because of the weather. We are both respectable people and I know we would be have ourselves if we had permission to be alone in the house.

Don't you think my parents should have more faith in me? —A Good Kid

Dear Good Kid: I'm sure you and your boy friend are "respectable" and would behave even if no one was in the house—but it's still a good rule and I am not going to lobby to have it changed.

A boy has a lot more respect for a girl who must abide by rules and regulations. He may complain but inwardly it puts you on a little pedestal. Stay there.

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.) (Copyright, 1959)

Don't Write Love Notes to Boys, Cautions Patri

BY ANGELO PATRI

"It was study hour and I had all my work done so I thought I'd write a note to my boy friend and I was so busy writing that I did not see the study hall teacher standing behind me reading it until she reached over my shoulder and lifted it and walked away without saying a word to me and she gave the note to my mother, and now I can't go out on a date. Is this right?"

I don't know. I haven't seen the note. I don't know the situation but I imagine that this girl's mother does and that she is acting for this girl's protection against her own ignorance of life's way with a girl who writes love notes to a boy in schooltime.

No matter what time it was it was the wrong time for a girl to write a note to a boy. Smart girls do not do this. Notes have a way of becoming a record and it just might be that this particular note might rise to embarrass this girl at a time when she can least afford it.

Crushes Die Out
After all, why write a note to a person one was certain to see in a short time? Why write when it all could be said and the words lost on the breeze instead of being permanently set on paper?

You see, girls, your crushes on boys die out, often as suddenly as they began and they should be allowed to do just that. This is the way that boys and girls learn about each other's ways, their opinions, their temperaments, habits, in preparation for the all-important and permanent association of husband and wife.

There is nothing permanent or certain about your steady boy friend of today. You don't believe this but look about you take a look past your present date and you'll see what we mean. Boy after boy just means step after step on the road to knowledge of mankind. A part of your growing up—your education for living. So don't write notes.

You won't like this either, but do consider it. Let your mother read any note you send a boy and any he sends you until you are at least 18. Not that she will be greatly thrilled by the experience but that you will be protected and saved from making an embarrassing mistake.

Regardless of what you think, boys have a way of telling. They are likely, many of them, to show such notes to their chums. Just as they are likely to boast of their conquests of girls to their fellows abouting. If you would like to have this. Think twice before writing this leaflet P-5, "Trouble With Number Tables," send 10 cents in coin to him, care this paper, Angelo Patri offers readers P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

When the hand was played, declarer took the first trick in dummy with the ace of diamonds and returned the jack of spades. The idea was to steal the ninth trick at once. It East had the ace of spades, he might play low; if West had the ace of spades, he might continue diamonds. As it happened, West had the ace of spades and the use of both eyes. He could see dummy's long clubs and felt sure that South had the king. West thought a bit more and eventually came to the right conclusion. He switched to the deuce of hearts. This fine play enabled the defenders to take their four heart tricks, defeating the contract.
Not Practical
South's little plot was clever, but not very practical. He should win the first trick in dummy with the ace of diamonds and run the six clubs immediately. South must make three discards, but he has no problems; he can throw a spade and two hearts or one heart and two spades, as he pleases.
The opponents have terrible problems. They must save all of their hearts to begin with. They must also save just enough in diamonds to pre-

Auto Revolution Spurring Economy

BY SYLVIA PORTER

In 1959 a revolution occurred in Detroit and the American automobile industry entered the fifth epoch in its history.

Throughout 1960 the first results of the revolution will emerge. Even now, though, there is sound basis for predicting that among the results will be a record or near-record auto sales year, a happy comeback of the U.S. car in the world markets, a vast increase in the number of multi-car families, a fiercely competitive era in which some well-known auto names will be tarnished, others will gain a new glitter.

But to me, impressive though the above listing is, it wouldn't justify the placing of the American small car (also known as the compact or economy car) among the top business and financial stories of the year. What does justify the ranking is the potential meaning of the upheaval to the entire U.S. economy — for if the small car is the smashing success it seems set to be, our whole country will feel a lift.

Car-Conscious Country

There isn't a half-awake American who needs to be reminded of the prolonged and at times bitter struggle preceding the introduction of the small cars.

We're an exceedingly car-conscious nation and you know how the auto magnates at first scoffed at the soaring popularity of the little foreign car here, then frowned, then went into action and placed stakes running into millions of dollars on their own models.

You know how mightily the "Little Two" — American Motors and Studebaker-Packard — have prospered because of their hot-selling Rambler and Lark. You know how excitedly enthusiastic was the public's initial appraisal of the new models this fall. You know that auto sales would be zooming were it not for the temporary shortages created by the steel strike.

Epochs Described

The small car does mark the take-off of the automobile industry in our land in a new direction. As Business Week defines the epochs, the beginning was in 1908, with the introduction of the Model T and mass production of a cheap car for the millions. The second epoch came in the '20s, with the development of sales networks by the industry and the model — every year scheme. The third came in the '30s, when the depression brought the economy theme and hundreds of companies went bankrupt. The fourth came in 1946, when car ownership became nationwide and autos steadily became splashier, longer, lower.

Now comes the fifth great cycle. A few years ago, the small economy car wasn't even a factor in the auto market; in 1960, one out of every four cars sold in our country may be in this range.

Second-Car Trend

The introduction of the economy car also may mark another shift in our way of life. A second car is becoming a necessity in a number of instances because of the breakdown in public transportation and the rise in the number of working wives — and the appearance of the compact car is spurring unprecedented interest in the purchase of this car. Multi-car ownership actually may soon become commonplace in the suburbs, may be absorbing 900,000 or more cars a year in the near future.

Dwarfing any of these angles in importance, though, is what a smash success the compact cars could mean to our economy. Our auto industry is the largest manufacturing enterprise in the world. The industry consumes 20 percent or more of just about every basic industrial commodity. The annual sales of General Motors alone exceed the annual output of whole nations. A spectacular auto sales year in 1960 would fan out, spark industries only remotely connected with Detroit, fatten paychecks and create jobs the land over.

And it is most significant that in 1960 our economy will need this sort of new spark, for such major stimulants as rising federal government spending, the housing boom, have lost their power.

The revolution in the auto industry in 1960 is helping to pave the way for general prosperity in America in 1960. Tomorrow: The gold outflow.

Rate Hikes Won't Cover Cost of Parcel Post

Taxpayers Still Will Have to Make Up Difference, Express Head Says

Government's out-of-pocket losses on parcel post-fourth class mail, said to be $600 million borne by taxpayers since July 1, 1956, will continue after Feb. 1, 1960, despite rate increases effective that date, it has been asserted by William B. Johnson, president of Railway Express Agency, Inc.

"Contrary to reports from Washington," he said, "the new parcel post rates are inadequate and will not make the government's package-carrying system self-supporting, as required by law."

The railroad-owned express company long has faced what Johnson termed "destructive taxpayer-subsidized government competition."

The agency president said that Railway Express had supported long overdue post-office rate proposals, even though inadequate, "because it was figured that half a loaf is better than none."

Johnson said conservative estimates, based on post office and other government cost figures, show current parcel post losses are accruing at the rate of $3.3 million a week. He noted that after Feb. 1 the out-of-pocket government loss still will be $1.6 million a week. The increased rates are expected to mean additional revenues of about $1.7 million a week, according to post office department figures.

Self-Supporting

"The parcel post is the only mail service which the law specifically requires to be self-supporting," he noted. "Deficits from the parcel post, are borne by all the taxpayers. A parcel post service at rates below cost may benefit a few large users of that service but cannot be justified from the standpoint of the general taxpayer public. In addition, a below-cost government service eventually will destroy private enterprise carriers who, in the long run, cannot possibly compete with a service subsidized by the United States treasury."

Financed Total of $415 at Chilton

Chilton—Topped by a $100 fine paid by Richard A. Flannigan, 36, Chicago, for possession and transportation of an improperly tagged deer, eight hunters paid fines totaling $415 in Wilber Winch's justice court.

Financed $50 each for transportation of untaged venison were Robert B. Covert, 34, Milwaukee; William J. Pisolska, 31, Kenosha; Dr. Nicholas Weizel, 39, Evanston, Ill.; Charles T. Jarvis, 30, Palatine, Ill.; Delbert Shaver, 21, Evanston, Ill., and John Nelson, 23, Milwaukee.

Harold DeGeove, 28, Milwaukee, was fined $15 for transporting an uncased firearm.

Mail Order Offers Sometimes Greasy

BY BERNARD GAVZER

New York —Across the nation, the mail order business is playing an important part in the economy. Mostly it represents solid enterprises offering valuable goods and services, but there are also some very sour apples.

"There are really few outright mail order rackets," says a National Better Business bureau expert. "After all, Uncle Sam is the store and these sharp promoters don't want to change tailored suits for striped ones, prison variety."

Van Miller, an NBBB vice president, says this of shady mail order schemes that bilk the public of millions of dollars each year:

"They usually have the same outstanding characteristics. There is gross exaggeration and gross distortion. They are seldom plainly fraudulent, but they certainly are misleading. They usually cling to one point—about which there may be no argument—and parlay it into a glowing account of pure wonder."

Examples Given

Mail order schemes cover just about every conceivable item. Miller lists a few that brought an avalanche of complaints to the NBBB:

•A pocket-sized portable radio, promoted as a miracle-radio that never wears out and can be taken on planes,

New York Dealer Buys Apocalypse For $182,000

London —A New York dealer Hans P. Kraus Tuesday paid a record $182,000 for a thirteenth century illuminated book. It was the highest price ever paid at auction of a book or manuscript and broke a 30-year record.

Kraus made his bid of 65,000 pounds for a copy of the Apocalypse printed in St. Albans, England, about 1250.

The previous auction record of 33,000 pounds—or $158,400 at the pound's value then—was paid by J. P. Morgan in 1929 for the Bedford Book of Hours.

Kraus himself had broken Morgan's record in sterling last year with a bid of 39,000 pounds for a 12th century illuminated manuscript of the Gospels. But at the pound's present value this came to only $109,200.

Both the copy of the Apocalypse and the Gospels Kraus bought last year came from the library of the late Byron Perrins, the British steak sauce manufacturer.

The Apocalypse is the last book of the New Testament, also called the Revelation of St. John the Divine. An illuminated manuscript is one which is decorated with ornate flourishes, initials and miniature pictures, all in brilliant colors.

Father Divine's Krum Elbow Heaven Sold

Former Appletonian Once Owned Land Near Hyde Park

Poughkeepsie, N.Y. —One of Father Divine's heavens — Krum Elbow, across the Hudson river from the Hyde park estate of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt — is being sold.

The late Howland Spencer, a bitter political foe and distant relative of Roosevelt, sold the 350-acre tract to the Negro cult leader and his followers in 1936.

(Howland S. Spencer, adventurer, wealthy importer and yachtsman, was born Harold Spencer in 1890 in Appleton. He was the son of Municipal Judge and Mrs. A. M. Spencer. He lived here until he went to the U. S. Naval academy at Annapolis. Spencer made headlines for his marriages to rich or titled women, including the older widow of George Ballentyne, Lady Isabella Beattie, Olivia Windham, niece of the dowager Marchioness of Queensberry, and the American heiress, Mrs. Emeline Harriman Olin. After a feud with Roosevelt, he made his home in the Bahamas, where he died Aug. 26, 1957.)

Spencer said at the time of the Krum Elbow sale he wanted to test Divine's theories against Roosevelt's. He said Roosevelt's New Deal was ruining the country through expenditures. Father Divine opposed debt.

Divine's shouting followers, who took such names as Faithful Mary and Bunch of Love, gathered at Krum Elbow, one of several heavens operated by Divine, during the 1930s and 1940s. They could get a room for $2 a week and eat chicken dinners for 15 cents.

"Peace — it's wonderful!" they shouted.

Father Divine, once a Baltimore odd jobs man, asked his followers to turn over to him all their worldly goods. In return, he provided them with their needs. He has been out of the limelight in recent years.

Walter R. Seaman, a Highland, N.Y., hardware merchant, said Tuesday he is buying Krum Elbow, possibly for use as a club for the aged. He said the asking price was $92,000 but declined to say what he is paying. The estate has not been used in recent years by Di-Lady Isabella Beattie, Olivia vine's followers. A custodian has been caring for the property.

'Millionaire' Having TV Rating Trouble

ABC-TV Studies Al Capp Comment Series; Bill Bendix Ready With NBC-TV Hoss Opera

BY JINGO
 "The Millionaire" reportedly has been taking a beating in the ratings and may be dropped by CBS-TV. Wouldn't that be a shame?
 ABC-TV, it says here, is toying with the idea of putting Cartoonist Al Capp into a regular series in which he'd comment at length on whatever he wants. Wouldn't that be great?
 Rumors have it that William Bendix, starring in a western series called "Overland Stage," will replace "Riverboat" on Sunday nights on NBC-TV. More ratings trouble.
 Ethel Merman will go on the road with her Broadway hit, "Gypsy." She let Mary Martin take her "Annie Get Your Gun" on tour and most people think it was Miss Martin's show.

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne made only one movie, "The Guardsman," in 1931. Now the famous duet is planning another. It'll be a 16mm effort of "The Visi" onstage at Los Angeles' Biltmore theater, and will be used to teach students who win Ford Foundation scholarships.
 Eleanor Parker and Robert Preston have signed to play mama and papa in the movie version of "Dark at the Top of the Stairs." The roles were originated on Broadway by Teresa Wright and Pat Hingle. Preston will make the film before the movie version of "Music Man."

Ann Miller has signed for three musical specials that will be slotted on television on Monday nights opposite ABC-TV's "Adventures in Paradise."

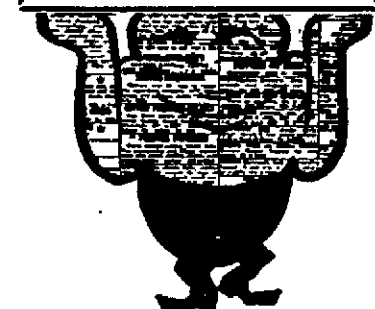

Speaking of TV specials, James Mason, his wife and daughter have been lined up by CBS-TV for a February outing in their "Murder in the Red Barn," a Hollywood Little Theater production which Mason directed and in which his wife and daughter starred.

Here's the roster for MGM's remake of "Cimarron," the old Irene Dunne-Richard Dix hit: Maria Schell, Glenn Ford, Anne Baxter, Arthur O'Connell, Mercedes McCambridge and Victor Morrow.

John Forsythe will spend his vacation away from "Bachelor Father," his TV series, by making a movie entitled "A Man of Cold Rages." Points up again how ridiculous the summer vacationing of TV programs is. The stars don't rest; they often take on harder work.

NBC-TV and Universal Pictures both have announced intent to present "The Hero of Iwo Jima," based on the book about Ira Hayes, who, along with Appleton's John Bradley, was one of the two flag-raisers. Universal has Gregory Peck announced for the starring role. NBC-TV will beam its version March 27.

Charlie Maloney, of Appleton's Cinderella Ballroom, has Frankie Yankovic, the polka king, booked for Sunday. Yankovic just finished 16 weeks in Las Vegas.

Arena to Present 'Ice Hop' Friday

For the first time in this area, a record hop will take to the ice Friday night when the management of the Brown County Veterans Memorial arena at Green Bay presents its own version of the popular social event.

The program, scheduled from 7:30 to 10 p.m., will have Dick Addis, TV announcer, as its guest master of ceremonies.

Participants will skate to "pop" tunes as well as special ice skating music. Special lighting effects, along with prize events, have been planned for the evening.

Musical Cast Goes Classical After Each Wednesday Matinee

New York — The cast of the hit musical "Destry Rides Again" goes classical each Wednesday following the show's matinee.

The company remains at the Imperial theater to hear orchestral works of Mozart, Beethoven, Mendelssohn and Opera Star Mary Costa, known best for her TV commercials, looks over her new contract with impresario Sol Hurok. She is guaranteed a quarter of a million dollars for the next five years for her work in opera, concert, radio, television and motion pictures. Miss Costa is in costume for the role she currently is playing with the San Francisco Opera company.

Lennon Sister Plans to Wed Next Summer

Hollywood — Dianne Lennon, oldest of the four singing Lennon sisters on Lawrence Welk's TV show, plans to marry a boy from down the block with whom she has grown up.

She and Dick Gass, 22, will be married sometime next summer, she said Tuesday — her 20th birthday. He is an army paratrooper stationed at Ft. Bragg, N.C., and scheduled to be discharged from the service June 1. His family and the Lennons have lived half a block apart in suburban Venice for 13 years.

Dianne said she won't continue her career after marriage. She said her sisters, Peggy, 18; Kathy, 16 and Janet, 13, "probably will continue as a trio."

Appleton Relatives

Exhaust Gas Presents Danger in Most Cars

Is your life—and the life of loved ones—being endangered by carbon monoxide from your car's exhaust system? Possibly, says the National Safety Council, which cites these facts on deaths from carbon monoxide—the so-called creeping killer:

1. Each year, more than 300 persons (not counting persons killed in moving motor vehicles) are victims of the poisonous gas. This number includes motorists who warm up their cars with the garage doors closed, auto mechanics who repair cars in closed garages and people who sit in parked cars and leave the motor on to keep the heater or air conditioner operating.

2. Somewhat less than 50 persons a year, as revealed by medical examiners' reports or autopsies, are victims of carbon monoxide while their car or truck is traveling down the highway. Though the statistics may show relatively few lives lost in moving motor vehicles, most safety men say the total number of deaths isn't clearly known.

"We suspect," said a state police official, "that many car accidents, rear end collisions and accidents in which the driver says he fell asleep are caused by carbon monoxide."

Carbon monoxide, the silent killer, causes more deaths than any other poison. It is colorless, tasteless, nonirritating and almost odorless. It can kill within minutes, depending on the concentration breathed into the lungs. Running the motor of a car for five minutes in a garage with the doors shut may mean death.

The symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning, according to the council: tightness across the forehead, followed by accompanied by throbbing in the temples, headache, weariness, weakness, dizziness, nausea, loss of muscular control and increased pulse and respiration.

Signs of Poison
If you're driving at night and the darkness seems blacker than usual, the glare of oncoming lights brighter than usual, carbon monoxide might well be the cause.

How can you prevent carbon monoxide poisoning?
1. Before starting your car engine, open the garage doors wide.
2. Never drive with all the windows closed.

3. If you're sleepy on the road, the cause can be carbon monoxide. Stop at once, get out of the car and breathe fresh air. Then drive with the windows open.
"In addition," the council advised, "don't follow other cars too closely. Their exhaust contains carbon monoxide fumes which may enter your car."

Street, Bridge Budget for '60 Set at $134,770

Total Accounts for About Nine Per Cent
Of All City Expenses

Kaukauna — Maintenance of highways and bridges in the city during 1960 is expected to take $134,770 or about 9 per cent of the total budget of $1,396,232. Amount appropriated for this item in 1959 was $103,548.

The 1960 budget shows $24,000 will be spent for lighting streets compared to $22,000 in 1959 while cost of maintaining street machinery was increased from $11,500 to $17,000 per year. Major reason for this equipment is the addition of an assistant mechanic at the city garage and his salary together with that of the mechanic are figured in this item.

Equipment purchases in 1960 will cost $11,500 compared to $4,725 in 1959. Purchaser planned include a new truck, new sander and miscellaneous equipment.

Other Changes
Street department supervisor's salary for 1960 is $5,800 compared to $5,473.40 last year and his expenses were increased from $300 to $350. Curb and gutter outlays for 1959 amounted to $8,925 compared to $5,000 in 1960. Cost of street signs and markers for 1960 amounts to $5,000 compared to $2,500 last year.

Sidewalk construction in 1960 is expected to cost $2,500 compared to $3,000 in 1959. The 1960 budget shows $12,000 to be spent for street construction while no money was appropriated to this account in 1959. Street oiling budget for both years is $10,000 while cost of snow and ice removal was increased from $10,000 to $15,000 after the budget for 1959 proved inadequate.

Parking lot outlays for both years is $1,000 and cost of maintaining bridges increased from $21,800 in 1959 to $22,000 for 1960. Drinking fountain expense for 1959 was $200 compared to $500 in 1960 as additional fountains are planned. Miscellaneous city labor costs remained at $100 and Elm street storeroom expenses were cut from $25 to $20.

Another new item in this bracket of the budget is the $3,000 appropriated for bringing the official city map and sewer map up to date. The council has already been given a cost estimate on re-vamping the maps.

The city anticipates $10,000 in state aid for the Lave street bridge, the same as 1959 and $38,600 in local street aids from the state compared to $39,000 in 1959. Gas-auto tax reimbursement from the state in 1960 was estimated at $11,500 compared to $13,000 in 1959.

Village Raises Sewage Fees

Combined Locks Approves $15 Hike Effective in 1960

Combined Locks — The village board Tuesday night increased sewage treatment fees from $10 to $25 per year, effective Jan. 1.

Trustees pointed out the fees were too low for the last few years and the rate increase will enable the village to help pay the $2,400 fee to Kaukauna for treatment of sewage for a year. Kaukauna is paid on the basis of gallons pumped under a formula established by the public service commission.

Kaukauna receives $175 for the first million gallons pumped and $35 for each additional million or fraction thereof. The Kaukauna 1960 budget estimates sewage treatment receipts of $2,400.

The street commissioner's salary was raised $32 per month, retroactive to Sept. 1. The finance committee was authorized to investigate various group insurance plans to ascertain whether a plan, more advantageous to the community, than the present plan, was available.

Board members authorized the exchange of buildings between the police department and fire department for housing vehicles. Police will use the garage while the fire truck will be located in the village hall.

Two permits were issued to alter commercial buildings at a cost of $4,600 and total building costs for the month were estimated at $28,000.

Jerome DeBruin had six points in two games while Karl Konrad scored seven. Kappell's and Shamrock have 0-1 marks while Krueger Furniture has yet to play a match.

Vikes to Begin MC Competition With 2-Game Iowa Tour Seek to End Marathon Loss Streak on Foreign Courts

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Lawrence college's Vikings open their Midwest conference basketball season at Grinnell, Iowa, Friday night with a yen to change their status from that of eagerly-awaited guests to rude party spoils.

For four full seasons (and part of a fifth) the Vikings have been welcomed with open arms at every MC court — as well as at a few non-league ports of call. Lawrence's mere presence has almost guaranteed success for the hosts' basketball functions. In the last 43 times they've been invited out to foreign courts, Vike quintets have done nothing to embarrass their grateful hosts.

The Vikings can't start their anxiously-awaited climb up the MC ladder until they stop being "cooperative" visitors.

Two Opportunities

Don Boya, who has coached the Vikings for two full seasons and one game of a third, has never had the privilege of watching his charges win a road game. He has two opportunities this week-end to shuck that distinction.

After the Grinnell game Friday night, the Vikings move over to Cedar Rapids to meet Coe. Both the Iowa quintets are accorded good chances of becoming title contenders.

The Vikings hope to make their presence felt in the MC, too, this season, their narrow, season-opening loss to non-conference Chicago notwithstanding. Boys reports that the players were as much dissatisfied with their own performances as they were disappointed by the 59-57 loss itself — on a last-minute basket.

Ragged Against Maroons

The Vikings admittedly were ragged against the Maroons and had trouble getting their offense going. Boya attributes much of it to a long Thanksgiving lay-off after the team had jelled in excellent pre-season fashion the middle of last week.

Boya called a workout for

Bays' Rushing Much Better Than in 1958 Top 2 Men May Double Last Season's Totals

BY ART DALEY Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Statistics are for losers to crow about. But not on Thursday.

This is a good day to harp about the Packers' individual figures. Actually, they offer another key to the 1959 Packers' amazing change over a year ago.

In 10 games, the club's two top ground gainers are Paul Hornung with 524 yards in 126 carries and Jim Taylor, 420 yards in only 98 trips.

Hold your teeth. Hornung led the Packers in '58 (in 12 games) with 310 yards in 69 tries. And Howie Ferguson was second with 268 in 50 trips. The two top gainers in 10 games this year picked up 944 stripes. The toppers in '58 averaged 578. Quite a difference.

Major Difference

The other major difference is in pass catching. The present Packers have three leaders—Boyd Dowler and Max McGee, with 22 each, and Gary Knefelc, with 21. That's real balance.

A year ago, McGee and Bill Howton finished with 37 and 36 catches, respectively. The third receiver then was Don McIlhenny, with 20.

The figures indicate the Packer passing attack has gone to pasture. Not so—as all Packer diehards know.

New value has been placed on Bay passing this year. The air attack is used sparingly, with the emphasis on the rush.

11 TD Passes

The Packers have 11 touchdown passes thus far out of 221 attempts. A year ago, the Bays had 15 TD passes in 346 attempts.

Dowler boomed into the pass receiving picture in the last three games, getting 14 with eight against the Colts.

Kojis Might Miss NYU Tilt Tonight

New York — Marquette coach Eddie Hickey may be without the services of veteran Don Kojis at center Thursday night when the Warriors open the basketball season in Madison Square garden against New York university.

Kojis is suffering from an ankle injury suffered in the varsity-fresh game last Saturday and it is not certain whether he will be able to play.

If Kojis can not start the coach probably will use Jerry Doyle at the pivot spot with Walt Mangham and Joel Pliska as forwards and Captain Jim Kollar and Ed Carter as guards.

The Marquette-NYU game precedes the St. Louis-St. John's battle at the Garden.

2 Green Bay West Linemen Selected for First Unit

By The Associated Press

Swift-striking backs and a line of brawn and speed featured the 1959 Associated Press all-Wisconsin high school football team announced today.

The backfield, averaging 184 pounds, includes Mike Rieder of Madison Edgewood, John Zurbach of Eau Claire, Jack Schlenz of Antigo and Bob Reid of Spring Valley. This quartet amassed a total of 323 points this fall. The line, centered by big Don Hendrickson of Green Bay West and including teammate Bob Rondou at guard, averages 196 pounds, passing snaring end Jim Brzezinski of Milwaukee Boys' Tech is the lightest at 175.

Others voted first team honors in the forward wall were end Dick Wankey of Appleton, tackles Clarence Kooymann of Janesville and George Sawall of Oshkosh and guard Jerry Tomey of Kenosha.

Dick Heiss, Appleton, was selected as a third-team guard.

The extremely close balloting by the AP selection committee was made after many hours of work sorting the recommendations from Wisconsin sports writers and coaches.

Hunt Claims AFL To Shun Money War

More Job Openings Will be Stressed In Recruiting

Dallas, Texas — The newly organized American Football league is shunning financial wars for top name players and will concentrate on "building solid teams," its founder declares.

Opportunities and job security will be stressed in seeking college players, Lamar Hunt, wealthy Dallas oilman, indicated Wednesday. He said he isn't worried about the fact the competing National Football league has signed some of the top stars of the college ranks.

"We're not interested in high bidding for the name players. We want to build a solid team," Hunt said.

Plan to Tell

Both Hunt and Don Rossi, his No. 1 executive, said they plan to tell the college stars this:

The National Football league will have openings for only about 20 players from the new crop of college players. The American league will have 264 job openings.

"We'll put it to the kids that way and it becomes a matter of simple arithmetic to see which way they'll go," Rossi said.

Hunt also disclosed that 161 more college players have been picked by the eight AFL clubs. In the first draft round, each AFL team picked 33 players—many of whom also have been sought by the NFL or Canadian pro clubs or both.

Brown TKOs Charnley, Ties Leonard's Record For Title Defenses

Fight Stopped After 5 Rounds Because Of Deep Cut Over Briton's Right Eye

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF

Houston, Tex. — Lightweight champion Joe Brown, a skittish 34-year-old, stopped another charge of youth Wednesday night when he beat Britisher Dave Charnley on a technical knockout.

And, a few minutes later, the champion said he would be ready to fight again only a week hence.

Brown didn't have any particular fighter in mind but declared he would like to get somebody for Dec. 9.

"No use wasting all that training — that's the hardest part of it," he explained. "I'm not hurt and I'm ready to go."

'Midget' Marciano

Charnley, the 24-year-old ex-bollermaker from Dartford, Kent, who is called "the midget Marciano" because he has shoulders and neck like a heavyweight, never was in the fight with the Baton Rouge, La., Negro, making the eighth defense of his title in 39 months. It tied the number of defenses by Benny Leonard, who set the record in the lightweight class before he retired undefeated in 1925.

Brown was leading by as many as five points in the fifth round when he lashed out with a left and then a right and crimson spread down the right cheek of the 24-year-old Briton as a deep cut opened over his eye. Charnley put his glove to his head and staggered back just as the bell rang, ending the round.

Charnley shuffled to his corner and while his handlers worked over him, Referee Jimmy Webb raised Brown's hand and led the champion to the center of the ring.

Arthur Boggis, manager of Charnley, claimed it was a butt that caused the cut but that it was unintentional. However, Webb ruled that it was a hard right and that Brown had won on a technical knockout in the sixth round since the fifth was over when the fight was stopped.

Brown verified that it was a right that put Charnley away. He said he got the British fighter on a right uppercut following a left.

"That's the one that ripped him open," said Brown. "But I would have knocked him cold anyway if I hadn't cut him."

The crowd could believe that. Charnley appeared to have little chance with the veteran Brown, who used a 34-inch reach advantage to keep Charnley away from him.

Lou Viscusi, Brown's manager, was noncommittal on his fighter's future plans. "That's a little too soon for Joe to fight again—Dec. 9," said Viscusi.

A crowd of about 6,000 paid $32.70 for the nationally televised fight. Counting the TV money of $40,000, the total was $72,720. Brown got about $25,000, Charnley $12,000.

Referee Webb had it 50-46 for Brown under the 10-point system, Taylor voted 49-46 and Judge W. H. Cornelius figured 50-45.

Terrors Will Open Loop Campaign

BY MIKE DREW Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Up in Green Bay, this week's schedule is being billed as one of the toughest non-tournament cards in West High history.

Tuesday night, the Wildcats opposed an intra-city rival, Fremont, and decided the Cadets, 61-50. Friday, the 'Cats visit Appleton High's Terrors in a game matching two of the five major contenders for the Fox River Valley conference title. It's the FRVC season opener.

Also Meet Lincoln

Then, Saturday, if the Wildcats have any excess energy left they can work it off in a home game with Milwaukee Lincoln, last season's public school state champion.

West's victory over Fremont was accomplished without either of the club's 6-3 behemoths, Don "Moose" Hendrickson, (235 pounds) and Tom Quinn, (173). Both of them have been slowed by the effects of virus infections.

They also missed West's only earlier start, a 64-43 loss to Antigo. Al Esther (6-1) paced the 'Cats in that one with 18 points. Esther hit 19 a game in Fremont, while Keith West, 5-8 senior guard, came through with 12.

Quinn was in uniform Tuesday but was rested for the weekend's duties. Hendrickson was home in bed and may not play Friday.

Friday's game will mark the FRVC coaching debut of Bob "Spider" Kloss, Neenah native who has succeeded Bruce Fossum at the West coaching helm. Kloss, a non-athlete at Neenah high who went on to football-basketball

Continental, Major Loops May Clash Head-on Tuesday

Groups Slate Separate Meetings Under Same Roof in Miami Beach

BY JOE RIECHLER
St. Petersburg, Fla. — (AP) — The first head-on clash between the majors and the proposed third major league—the Continental—may take place Tuesday when they all meet separately but under the same roof at Miami Beach.

The American and National, spurred by Commissioner Ford Frick are expected to make known their positions on expansion of their 8-club leagues.

The Continental league, aware of Frick's pressure on the majors, has called a meeting of its own to coincide with those of the majors. Branch Rickey, president of the 5-team circuit, will fly down from New York, prepared to respond when the majors state their positive intentions.

American league President Joe Cronin will call on his 3-man fact-finding committee to report its findings for internal expansion for 1961. The committee was selected during an October meeting in New York when the league announced it was seriously considering expansion to 10 teams by 1961.

The meeting stemmed from a Minneapolis group's request for a franchise. Minneapolis-St. Paul is one of the five founding members of the Continental league. The others are New York, Denver, Toronto and Houston.

Met With Frick
George Kirksey, associated with the Houston franchise, met with Frick earlier this week in an attempt to clear up all misunderstandings that had cropped up in recent weeks. He indicated he came away satisfied.

Frick said he expects some kind of a statement on expansion from the two majors. "As commissioner of baseball," Frick said, "I have three great obligations. One is to the public, another is to the players and the third is to the minor leagues. I must guard against players being sold down the river or the minors being sold down the river."

"They (the Continental league) must comply with the conditions they agreed to at a meeting with the majors in New York. When they have eight clubs, a pension plan for the players and have satisfied the minor leagues for their territorial loss, then they will get favorable consideration. "I will even go a step further. I will be their biggest and best rooter. I will carry the torch for them. If they comply with these conditions, they will find that the best friend they have is the commissioner of baseball."

Two Packers dented the league figures after Thursday's games—Hornung and Starr.

Hornung reeled off 18 points in the first six minutes before getting hurt and the total moved him into fourth place among loop scorers with 64 points. He booted all of the Bays' 22 extra points and added six field goals in 14 attempts. And he has four touchdowns. Hornung dropped out of the first 10 in rushing.

Ranks 13th
Starr was on the passing board for the first time this year, having worked the last three and a half games. He ranks thirteenth with an average gain of 6.31 yards per pass attempt. Packer Lamar McHan, idle for the same period, is sixth with 7.45.

Low Carpenter remained in first place in punt returning, with his average runback of 11.6 yards in 11 trips. Bill Butler is seventh in that department, with 7.9. John Symank is fifth in kickoff returns.

Here are the Packers' individual leaders:
Rushing: Hornung 524 gained yards in 126 attempts, Taylor 420 in 98, McIlhenny 219 in 45, Carpenter 204 in 42, Starr 73 in 8, McHan 64 in 16, Butler 25 in 2, Francis 5 in 2.

Scoring: Hornung 64 points in four touchdowns, 22 extra points, six field goals; Taylor 36 on six TDs; McGee 30 in five; Knafelc 18 on three; McIlhenny, Dowler, Carpenter and Butler, six each; Haner, two on safety.

Pass reception: McGee caught 22 for 529 yards, Dowler 22 for 399, Knafelc 21 for 275, Hornung 11 for 106, McIlhenny six for 68, Taylor six for 44, Carpenter four for 40, Williams one for 11.

for the Pittsburgh Steelers.
Thomey was the only unanimous line choice in the Big Eight conference.

Although there were a host of fine candidates at center, the selection committee decided on Hendricksen, a hulking 6-5, 235-pounder. He was also an exceptional place-kicker, booting three field goals.

The top choices at the flanks are opposites. Wankey caught only one touchdown pass, while the lanky Brzezinski hauled in eight. Wankey, however, earned a spot with his aggressiveness and hard blocking which helped make Appleton's running game the best in the Fox River Valley.

Koosman (6-2, 195) was virtually the entire right side of a 3-man line for Janesville and on offense often was shifted to fullback because of his running ability. Sawall, a 6-3, 202-pounder, rated the best Oshkosh lineman since Dick Teteak.

Rondou is rated as the best lineman at Green Bay West since Dick "Soup" Campbell, who went on to Marquette and now is a defensive standout

They'll Do It Every Time

Minor Leagues Want to Curb Excessive Bonus Payments

St. Petersburg, Fla. — (AP) — The minor leagues want to curb payments of excessive bonus money to untied youngsters and to ease the advancement of their players to the major leagues.

The Louisville club wants a new version of the bonus rule which was scrapped two years ago. Players paid more than $6,000 above minimum salary to sign would be sharply restricted. If kept on the major league roster, they would have to pass through waivers before being optioned to the minors. If signed to a minor league contract, they would be subject to draft after their first year in organized baseball.

Bob Howsam, owner of the Denver club, had an even more radical proposal. He suggested a draft of all free agents, similar to the professional football and basketball drafts. Under this plan, all high schools boys, college graduates and other free agents would go into a common pool. The majors and minors would then make their selections in reverse order of their standings.

Three drafts would be held each year, on June 15, shortly after high school graduation, on Oct. 15, and on March 15.

Dodger-Nat Deal Stalls

LA Refuses to Include Demeter in Package

St. Petersburg, Fla. — (AP) — Los Angeles' refusal to include outfielder Don Demeter stalled a 6-man player trade parley between the Dodgers and the Washington Senators today.

The Dodgers had offered shortstop Don Zimmer, outfielder Ron Fairly and pitcher Danny McDevitt or Clem Labine for slugger Roy Sievers, pitcher Russ Kemmerer and second baseman Reno Bertoia. The Senators insisted that Demeter be substituted for Fairly and were rebuffed by the Dodgers.

Still Searching
Consequently, the Senators, still searching for a shortstop and center fielder, turned to the Chicago White Sox. They offered the same trio for Chicago's Sammy Callison and a catcher, either Earl Battey or John Romano.

Not a single deal was completed Wednesday although every club reported trade talk. The feeling was that no deal would be engineered until the major league meeting in Miami beach next week.

Bing Devine, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, said talks with the San Francisco Giants of a trade involving Johnny Antonelli and Daryl Spencer of the Giants and Larry Jackson and Don Blasingame of the Redbirds had collapsed but expressed hope that a trade could be made between the clubs along those lines "with variations."

Reports of Kuharich Quitting Seems Unfounded at Irish Fete

South Bend, Ind. — (AP) — Notre Dame's fortieth annual civic football banquet was held on the same note of confidence that the Irish concluded the 1959 campaign.

Reports Head Coach Joe Kuharich, winding up his first season with a 5-5 record, was preparing to return to the pro ranks seemed completely unfounded at the gathering last night.

Kuharich, the Rev. Edmond P. Joyce, executive vice president of the university, and Athletic Director Ed Krause all discarded rumors that the former Washington Redskins coach might leave his alma mater.

Laud '59 Team
In other circles an informed source told the Associated Press that Kuharich hasn't even thought of leaving the school. The source said Kuharich's main ambition last year was to leave professional coaching and return to college ranks.

Both Kuharich and Father Joyce lauded the 1959 team which finished with impressive victories over Iowa and Southern California. Even though it made a 5-5 season it was the third worst in the school's football history.

"Greater teams have represented Notre Dame," said Kuharich. "But none has shown the tenacity, and courage to come back strongly over discouragement as this 1959 team did. The staff is well pleased with the efforts of this team.

Also on the program were Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinal baseball star whose son is a student at Notre Dame, and Ara Parseghian, Northwestern football coach.

Junior guard Myron Potlios of Van Voorhis, Pa., was named 1960 captain. He played in only three games this season because of a knee injury.

Earn Honorable Mention on Little All-America Squad

(From AP Dispatches)
Eight Wisconsin college football players won honorable mention on the 1959 Little All-America squad selected by the Associated Press and announced today.

Two of them, tackle Charles Pietkowski and back Dick Cechowski, played with Ripon. Three were members of the LaCrosse State college team—tackle Jim Killian, guard John Thomsen and back Gene Conger.

Others were Colin Stetson of Beloit, Roger Johnson of Whitewater State and Ron Jensen of Carroll.

Men who made the first team backfield include: Sam McCord, a repeater from last year, who has run and passed for more than two miles worth of yardage in his varsity career at East Texas State; Vince Tesone, Colorado Mines; Walt Beach of Central Michigan and Bill Larsen, Western Illinois.

The first team center is 235-pound Roger LeClerc of Trinity (Conn.) college. LeClerc, drafted by the Chicago Bears in 1958, made 50 per cent of the tackles, handled 90 per cent of his club's punting, kicked 15 out of 20 conversions and blocked with precision.

Others in the line are tackles Walt Meincke of Lehigh, and Bob Zimpfer of Bowling Green, ends Hugh McInnis of Mississippi Southern and Tommy Hackler of Tennessee Tech, and guards Marvin "Cisco" Cisneros of Williamette (Ore.) and Texas A and I's Gerald Lambert.

Wednesday afternoon, putting the emphasis on ball handling. He says the players pitched in eagerly in an effort to regain their touch.

Of the Vike reserves, Marty Gradman made the biggest impression in the Chicago game and may possibly break into the starting lineup Friday. Boya, however, indicated that his original starting five — Jim Jordan, George Gray, "Chuck" Knocke and Jim Schulze — would again be ticketed for the most action.

Little more than 24 hours after returning from Chicago, the Vikes resumed their ambitious first-week's tour. They were to leave at 3 p.m. today for Dubuque, where they'll stay overnight before going on to Grinnell Friday.

McClintock Back
In their 1958 visit to Grinnell, the Vikes were in the game all the way before losing, 56-53. Three of the top Grinnell scorers are back this year. They are 6-foot-6 Bill McClintock, who scored 29 points in the two games against Lawrence; 6-2 Jim Simmons, who totaled 24 points; and 6-2 Jim Lowry who hit 12 against the Vikes.

Simmons is a protege of Boya's in Don's prep coaching days in Chicago.

Rasmussen scored 40 points for the Vikes against Grinnell in the two games last season, while Knocke accounted for 23. Coach Joe Pitsch's Pioneers finished a surprise second in the MC with a 12-4 record and had a 13-8 season, overall.

Coach Bill Fitch's Coe team has the largest number of lettered returnees — nine — in the conference. Ron Waeckerle, a second-team all-conference player, is the team's spark. The 5-9 guard scored 28 points in last season's 76-60 and 72-59 wins over Lawrence.

Other important returnees are 6-5 Carl Froebel, who scored 28 against the Vikes last year; 6-2 Dick Knowles, who made 31 points, and 6-5 Joe Austin, with 12. Rasmussen and Knocke were the Vikes' heaviest point-makers against the Kowhaws, with 35 and 34, respectively.

Schleinz, who packs 194 pounds into a 5-11 frame, was a workhorse on Antigo's undefeated league champions. Schleinz gained 847 yards in 140 carries in eight games, scoring 92 points.

Reid, a 175-pound pony back, is a brilliant open field runner with a tricky change of pace and blazing speed. He piled up 131 points while gaining 1,169 yards on 69 rushes.

The top choices at the flanks are opposites. Wankey caught only one touchdown pass, while the lanky Brzezinski hauled in eight. Wankey, however, earned a spot with his aggressiveness and hard blocking which helped make Appleton's running game the best in the Fox River Valley.

Koosman (6-2, 195) was virtually the entire right side of a 3-man line for Janesville and on offense often was shifted to fullback because of his running ability. Sawall, a 6-3, 202-pounder, rated the best Oshkosh lineman since Dick Teteak.

Rondou is rated as the best lineman at Green Bay West since Dick "Soup" Campbell, who went on to Marquette and now is a defensive standout

Montreal Falls For 1st Time Since October

Leafs Snap String At 18; Bruins and Hawks Stage Brawl

By The Associated Press
The Montreal Canadiens have found out that they "can't win 'em all" in the National Hockey league. The Toronto Maple Leafs nipped Montreal, 1-0, Wednesday night and in the process snapped the Canadiens' unbeaten string at 18 games. The setback also broke the league leaders' winning streak at eight games.

Veteran goalie Johnny Bower and winger Frank Mahovlich combined to hand the Canadiens their first defeat since Oct. 17 when the New York Rangers beat them 4-2. During the span Montreal won 15 times and had three ties.

Bower turned aside 28 shots in outclassing net - minder Jacques Plante, Montreal's masked rival.

Play 2-2 Tie
In another NHL game, the Chicago Black Hawks and the Boston Bruins played a 2-2 tie. Ron Murphy's goal late in the final period enabled the Hawks to deadlock the game, which was marked by fights and penalties.

A partisan crowd of 14,632 at Maple Leaf gardens saw second place Toronto move to within eight points of Montreal. The turnout was the largest to see the Leafs at home in 13 years.

Eric Nesterenko of Chicago and Vic Stasiuk of Boston were the combatants in a wild brawl in the Hawks-Bruins game. Each drew major penalties for fighting. Stasiuk was assessed an additional five minutes for drawing blood and also was given a 10-minute misconduct penalty. Nesterenko needed six stitches to close a gash on the scalp.

A Kloss-coached LaCrosse club faced Appleton in the 1956 state tournament when Dick Emanuel's Terrors won, on their way into the championship game.

Emanuel scouted West against Premontre and says this year's edition looks like "one of the best I've seen at West" in Dick's six seasons in the FRVC. "I don't know how they could lose to Antigo, even with Quinn and Hendrickson missing," asserts Emanuel.

The Terror mentor says his own crew, which has won two of its three games and lost the third to rugged Kimberly by just two points, "looks good one night and bad the next," in practice.

"These kids haven't been getting things done in practice as well as other bunches we've had in the past," he remarked.

Good Job
The Terrors "did a pretty good job on the whole" in the 54-37 trouncing of Madison West, Emanuel observes "although we didn't look as good as we did against Kimberly."

Emanuel is of the opinion that the good Appleton showing in the 74-72 loss to the 1959 Neenah sectional champs was sort of a "freak" effort. "We hit a peak in that first game that we might not reach again until mid-season," he observes.

The six boys who have been doing the brunt of the playing thus far figure to do so Friday. The six have scored between 19 and 34 points in the three games for unusual balance.

Ron Abel leads with 34, Pete Treiber has 32, Marty Schultz and Dave LaViolette 31, Harold Loholz 20 and Paul VanderHeyden 19.

Treiber and LaViolette are guards, the others are forecourtiers. Against the big and rugged Madisonians the Terror tall boys had their troubles. VanderHeyden (6-2) and Loholz (6-3) counted two points apiece and Abel (6-5) totaled just seven.

Fortunately, LaViolette, who had one of his two best scoring nights of the season against Madison's Regents last year, chimed in with 15 Saturday, hitting from outside the West zone.

Missed Workout
Treiber missed Wednesday's practice because of illness. His spot in the starting lineup would probably be filled by a little junior, Bill Hopkins, if Pete hasn't recovered by Friday. Hopkins shows some promise but he lacks Treiber's smoothness.

The Terrors stressed offense against a press during out a rugged workout (with lots of fouling). Emanuel says the Wildcats have good depth, especially at guard, and he wants his club to look better against the press than they did in beating Menasha.

Schultz has been starting to score better in practice this week. His coach has been working on him to get more arch in his shots and Tuesday Marty was ringing the

Seattle Houdini's Feature Juggling Act During Half

Kaukauna — The second exhibition basketball game of the season for the Kaukauna Athletic club cagers will be played at 8 p.m. Sunday in the high school gym with the Seattle Houdini's furnishing opposition.

The Seattle team is composed of seven former college stars and feature attraction is Harry McLaughlin, 6-foot, 4-inch center, who puts on a half-time show which includes spinning six basketballs at the same time as well as many other tricks. He offers $1,000 in prize money to anyone able to duplicate his feats.

Broke Records
McLaughlin is a Sioux Indian who broke all previous scoring records for Pacific Lutheran college. He was an all-West coast team pick.

Tallest man on the squad and only Midwest player is Vince Stankewitz who stands 6-7 and played at Milton college. He has seen action with the United States All-Stars and played with a House of David team which toured South America.

All the players are former members of college teams. The team has two players un-presence felt immediately, leading the Sentinels to a 6-6 tie against the Soo Indians last time out.

Dick Dougherty, with a 6-point harvest in the Minneapolis series, has regained sole possession of the Bobcats' individual scoring lead with 19 points. Paul Johnson and Player-Coach Johnny Mayasich are tied for second place with 17 apiece.

Nixon Asks Young Second Candidate

White Says Vice Presidency Will Be Serious Prize in the GOP

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE Washington — Vice President Richard Nixon is determined the vice presidential nomination is to be treated as a serious prize in next year's Republican convention. He, of course, expects the presidential designation.

Strongly aided by circumstance, Nixon in seven years has built up the secondary office to a prestige it never had before in history. The willingness of President Eisenhower to turn over such unusual power to the vice president has been the first factor. But Nixon's eagerness to use that power has been equally important.

Now, Nixon already is planning so the office he has elevated will not return, after 1960, to its old status as a sour political joke. Traditionally, the vice-presidency has been seen as a job for a faceless stand-in whose only importance lay in his being around to take over in case of the death of the president.

Selected by President A vice presidential candidate is usually selected by the presidential nominee, after consultation with advisors. If Nixon gets the top nomination next year, two things may be put down as certain: 1. Richard M. Nixon alone will decide who is to run on the ticket with him. Whatever caucus is held will be held, really, in Nixon's hat. 2. Whoever is chosen will be chosen with new standards. To begin with, Nixon is not impressed by the old idea of geographical balance — if the presidential nominee is from the east, for example, the vice presidential nominee must be from the west.

His set of qualifications for second place may be described as follows: The second man must first of all be in total sympathy with the policies of the top man. Next, he must have genuine political appeal in his own right. He must be able to assist the top nominee instead of just going along for the ride. Then, he must be young and vigorous enough to take on much foreign traveling. (Nixon himself has done just such far wandering. But if he were president today he would not be setting off on the kind of 11-nation journey Eisenhower is taking. Nixon would send his VP, instead.) Finally, Nixon is far from committed to another kind of ticket balancing, though his mind cannot wholly be made up until next year. It appears the Democrats are likely to put a Catholic on their ticket, in one place or the other. Nixon, for his part, may well ignore the religious aspect.

Many believe that if one party offers a candidate from among a religious minority the other party is bound to do likewise. Nixon is by no means so convinced. Indeed, his people reckon that in some eventualities the political advantage might lie in the other direction altogether.

Offense Possible They think that if the Democrats become deeply caught up in the religious question they may well offend all groups. In such a case, the present odds are the Nixon camp would bypass the whole controversy by naming an all-protestant ticket. By doing so they could present the GOP as unwilling to bring into a political campaign what ought to be irrelevant.

The Nixon people solemnly offer a list of possibles as long as your arm. Why are they so vague? Because you surely don't do yourself any harm by identifying many stout fellows as fine vice presidential material and waiting until the very last moment before rejecting all of them but one. But I insisted and they laughed even more about my stupidity. Finally they handed it to me to convince me that it was a different rifle. # Appleton Aldermen Approve Regional Planning Contract

Vote 10 to 7, Making City Fifth Commission Member to Endorse

Appleton aldermen Wednesday approved the regional planning contract, 10 to 7.

Voting against it were Aldermen Groh, Mueller, Ogilvie, Pointer, Schneider, Schumacher and Stumpf. Absent were Aldermen Lautenschlaeger, Priebe and Tucker.

The vote Tuesday in the city planning commission, which brought the contract to the council, was 3 to 1, with Director of Public Works Duszynski the lone opponent.

Appleton thus becomes the fifth member of the regional planning commission to endorse the contract. The villages of Little Chute and Combined Locks and the town of Grand Chute and Neenah earlier gave their approval.

Schneider said the planning contract calls for Appleton to pay 11 installments of $4,014.07 between March 1, 1960, and Dec. 1, 1962, while Kenneth L. Schellie and associates devise a regional development plan for the area from north of Kaukauna to south of Neenah.

In the council debate Wednesday, Ald. Schneider called the city planning commission report "skimpy."

"When the council votes $60,000 to $70,000 in commitments for three years, the taxpayers are entitled to know what they are getting, and Appleton will get nothing," said Schneider.

While he's worried about squandering the money, he's even more worried about "the absolute waste of three years' time," Schneider said.

most expensive was selected. Schellie was to do all work. But, now Appleton will have to furnish him with all the information about the city. This means taxing the city engineering department, he said.

No Selectivity

Ald. Ogilvie said he believes a combination planner and traffic engineer could be obtained more cheaply, but he isn't sure that the Schellie plan won't constitute regional planning.

Mrs. Stillings replied that the Schellie contract promises plans for internal city parks, internal city schools and a capital improvement program, but no selectivity of plans is being permitted.

City mayors, village presidents and town chairmen voted, she said, "to consider no other plans but this one and the motion was made by our own mayor."

Mrs. Stillings asked whether 10 votes was a majority for the recommendation.

Clash on Ruling

City Atty. Jury ruled that approval required a majority vote of the quorum present and so approval carried.

Ald. Malmstrom commented that he hopes the mayor will recall the ruling in the future so there is consistency. The mayor snapped, "I will."

The bylaw referred to an identical vote April 15 in favor of referring back to committee a recommendation to buy 352 parking meters for $16,218. At that time Mayor Mitchell ruled the 10 proponents of referral back had lost.

Jury said today the April 15 ruling was in error.

Three Couples Granted Divorces In Two Courts

Three couples have been divorced, two in municipal court and one in circuit court. All were absolute divorces granted on charges of cruel and inhuman treatment.

Peter M. Jordan, 27, route 2, West DePere, was granted a divorce in municipal court from Elizabeth A. Korne Jordan, 21, presently serving a sentence in Taycheedah women's prison. Custody of the couple's two children was given Jordan. The mother's right to the children was terminated by the Brown county juvenile court. She was a member of a gang in Oneida and was sent to prison for her activities. She was given her personal belongings as a final property settlement and in lieu of alimony. The couple married Dec. 23, 1954, in Chicago.

Lulu M. Smith Voigt, 41, of 312 E. Fremont street, was granted a divorce in municipal court from Alvin H. Voigt, 35, of 1111 W. Kamps avenue. A property settlement was made. The couple married at Chesterfield, S.C., Dec. 7, 1957.

Madele Bergszakken Cargle, 26, route 1, Appleton, was granted a divorce in circuit court from George Cargle, 29, of 131 S. Oneida street. Custody of three children was given Mrs. Cargle and her former husband was ordered to pay $35 weekly support and alimony. The couple was married in Appleton Dec. 1, 1951.

School Law Alarms Big City Leaders

Legislature Told Forcing of Services Will End Annexation

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Spokesmen for larger cities Wednesday pleaded with the legislature to assure orderly expansion of their boundaries through annexation laws that encourage attachment of suburb neighborhoods for all local governmental purposes.

They turned up before an assembly committee to protest a law adopted earlier this year that will have the effect of permitting some of the territory lying near a city to join the city for school purposes only. City spokesmen recognize the probability that if they are forced to provide school services to suburbs they will lose all chance of total annexation of such areas.

The problem grew out of the act of the legislature which requires all territory not now in a high school district to be attached to a high school district by July 1, 1962.

Nelson Cited Danger

As the law may work out, such a suburban neighborhood which rejects full annexation in a referendum may subsequently arrange through the county school committee to be attached to the neighboring city for school purposes only.

Gov. Nelson, in signing the original bill, said its ultimate purpose was a good one, but he acknowledged publicly the problems of the cities and asked the legislature to amend it to protect city interests.

The hearing Wednesday showed that the modification of the law may be difficult to approve. Rural and suburban interests fought the "corrective" bill and some school spokesmen declared that cities are unfairly interjecting the annexation political issue into what is basically a question of educational philosophy and a progressive improvement of state educational opportunities.

Madison, Janesville and Waukesha city officials, speaking for rapidly growing communities, expressed alarm that the new school law will impede their planned growth.

"Nothing could be more discouraging to orderly plans for urban development," said City Manager Joseph Lustig of Janesville.

"This will forever close the door to planned expansion of our city," echoed B. A. Hein, Waukesha school chief.

Madison city spokesmen, conscious of a long feud with Madison suburbs, warned that the new act will "incite" a train of lawsuits unless it is clarified.

Ald. Groh Seeks Damages for Snow Plowing Work Injury

Ald. R. P. Groh is seeking damages from the city.

He says he was injured—a hernia that required operation—while helping city crews plow snow during one of last winter's blizzards.

Hearing Jan. 8

Hardware Mutuals contends Groh was not an employee of the city at the time of the alleged mishap and, in fact, the injury was not incurred at that time.

The state industrial commission hearing is scheduled Jan. 8 at city hall, along with 12 other workmen's compensation hearings.

Groh said he was pressed into service during the blizzard by Ald. Roy Pointer, street committee chairman, because crews were working around the clock and help was in short supply. He joined some half dozen other aldermen in relieving the regulars.

Paid Schumacher

He and two others were attempting to break loose two trucks, which were frozen in place, by pushing and pulling on a taut chain between the trucks when the injury occurred, Groh said.

The situation is not similar, but the city's workmen's compensation carrier has paid a claim by a city alderman.

Two Aldermen Ask City Help For Workshop

Leaders Already Told To See Appeals Board, Mayor Says

Two aldermen Wednesday called for the city to move speedily to help Fox Valley Sheltered Workshop construct its new building in the city's industrial development park.

The workshop's building permit, obtained Friday, was revoked by Inspector Walter Bogan after he discovered there are no sewer or water mains in S. Perkins street as required by city ordinance.

Ald. Hannemann said the city ought "to bend over backwards" to help the workshop. "Somebody ought to tell them to go to the board of appeals," he said.

"That's already been done," Mayor Mitchell told Hannemann.

'Send Letter Tonight'

Ald. Malmstrom urged that all city officials get behind "this very worthwhile project as much as possible." He said a letter should be gotten out "tonight if possible" asking Sewer and water mains, not only for S. Perkins along the workshop tract, but also along a side street on the north line of the workshop property, was ordered without opposition. Director of Public Works Duszynski said they probably won't be laid until spring.

Meanwhile, L. C. Smith, workshop leader, said that the "work day" for volunteer skilled workmen will proceed on Saturday as scheduled. The part of the foundation already constructed must be protected, he said.

Technicalities Snag Council Voting In Hearings on Zone Change Plan

The city council Wednesday snagged on technicalities of voting procedure before it adopted a rezoning plan recommended by the city planning commission last month.

Involved was denial of Mrs. Mary Reffke's plea to rezone her lot at 224 E. Circle street to 2-family district and approval instead of rezoning of the entire north side of E. Circle between Morrison and Durkee streets to 2-family status.

E. A. Dettman, 100 Cherry court, representing the Methodist church of Wisconsin, said the church opposes rezoning the Reffke lot.

Richard Reffke, 228 E. Circle, said he favors the planning commission recommendation because he lives all alone in a 10-room house that could be converted to 2-family dwelling. Besides, he said, there are four or five houses in the block, all in single family district, which have two families in them.

Ald. Mueller, early in the public hearing, made a spirited plea for adoption of the commission's recommendation, saying the commission deserves a pat on the back for avoiding spot zoning.

Malmstrom in another City Atty. Jury said Malm-

Ald. Stoenbauer explained he had known what the vote was all about, that he had voted in favor because he doesn't care about the map.

Ald. Mueller interjected that he had withdrawn his second to that motion. Several voices told him someone else had seconded it.

"Sit Down Some Place"

"But, we're right back where we started," said Bogan.

"Voting on the amendment?" asked Ald. Hanne-

"No," replied several aldermen.

The mayor then ordered the roll call on the motion, as amended. City Clerk Broehm intoned the list, "Bogan..."

"I'm going to vote aye so the man can get his zone change..." explained Bogan.

"I rise to a point of order," shouted Ald. Malmstrom, obviously about to point out that no speeches are permitted during roll call votes.

"Oh, go sit down some place," called Bogan as he continued to talk in audible sentences.

The commission's recommendation, incidentally, was approved.

City Retailers Back Revised Parking Laws

Property Owner Asks Meeting on Proposed Sale to Fox Tractor

Appleton Downtown Retail Association supports Ald. Schneider's plan for revision of downtown parking meter and time limit changes.

Notification of support came Wednesday in a letter to the city council from the association secretary, Giles Flanagan.

Schneider's plan generally would end use of pennies in meters, hike the hourly charge to 10 cents and provide for 20 cents an hour meters on key corners.

The public safety committee will discuss the plan in detail Tuesday, Schneider informed the council.

Men of Four Unions Will Donate Time to Workshop

Four Appleton labor union locals have pledged 100 per cent support of the Fox Valley Sheltered Workshop and will donate time to work on the project, it was reported today by Albert Kobussen, president of the Appleton Federation of Labor Unions.

The locals are the Plumber's and Steamfitters 458, Operating Engineers 138, Carpenters 955 and Masons 31.

Kobussen said approximately 20 masons will lay concrete blocks at the workshop building day Saturday and carpenters and heavy equipment operators will work as needed. Plumbers and steamfitters, he said, will put in enough time so there will be "no additional cost to the workshop for labor."

The building permit for the Sheltered Workshop has been revoked because there are no sewer or water facilities at site in Appleton Industrial park. However, L. C. Smith, Kaukauna, president of the workshop corporation, told the Appleton council Wednesday some work has to be done to protect the segments already completed.

Ald. Pointer asked for construction of sewer and water mains and grading and graveling of Graceland avenue between Woodland and Grant streets next year.

Nicholas Griesbach requested vacating of Taylor street from Nicholas street west.

The Y's Men's club sought permission to hang a banner across Appleton street at Washington street to advertise its annual Christmas tree sale. It was referred to the street committee, with power to act.

Ald. Stillings asked from the floor whether future monthly comptroller reports will list the total surplus of all funds. She was assured they would.

Man Barely Holding His Own in Battle Against Insects

That's the word from a bug expert, Harrold B. Jones of Memphis, Tenn., who says that contrary to common belief man is barely holding his own in a battle for survival against insects.

"There are more mosquitoes, flies and bugs today than ever before and the danger to the public is hard to evaluate," Jones told the entomological societies of America, Canada and Ontario here.

"If we didn't have our present insecticides and arsenicals," he added, "all of our food and fiber crops would be lost."

Jones, an expert with American Smelting and Refining company, said succeeding generations of bugs have built up an immunity to DDT, sending scientists back to old insect eradicators.

But even with hundreds of firms turning out insecticides, Jones said "there is no certainty that we will win the war with the insects, unless people start destroying the sources of larvae."

Several Major Decisions Made on Industrial Park

Tentative Plat Acceptance Paves Way for Sewer, Water Installation

Several major decisions affecting the city's industrial development park and program have been made.

At a joint meeting Tuesday of the board of public works, the industrial committee of the city council and Appleton Industrial Development corporation, it was decided to:

Accept a tentative plat of the 40-acre existing park on S. Perkins street, opening the way for sewer and water mains ordered Monday by the street committee to serve the new Fox Valley Sheltered Workshop building.

Continue investigation of whether to buy an additional 61 acres for the park.

Reopen Talks

Renew negotiations with George Vanden Heuvel, 1103 S. Perkins street, for purchase of his narrow corridor between the present park and the 61 acres proposed for purchase.

Await a list of restrictions from Appleton Industrial Development corporation for inclusion in all future sales of park land.

The tentative plat, prepared by the engineering department, shows east-west streets on each side of the 10 acres already pledged to Appleton Manufacturing company, and the extension of County Trunk A on the west boundary. The County Trunk A right-of-way width will be 80 feet.

Designating of the lots in the plat—within provisions made for the Appleton Manufacturing land and other pledged to Fox Valley Sheltered Workshop—permits the engineering department to finish plans for sewer and water mains. This, in turn, permits the engineering department to comply with the Wednesday's council decision to furnish sewer and water along S. Perkins and on the southernmost east-west street to serve the new workshop building.

$1,500 an Acre

The 61 acres is being offered by Roland Abitz for $1,500 an acre. Two questions were raised: (1) Whether it would be worthwhile to buy the land without the intervening Vanden Heuvel corridor and (2) whether the city has enough surplus money to finance the purchase until sometime in the future when it is resold to industry.

One industrial committee man voted against rejection of the six small parcels, all on the east side of S. Perkins street, across from the park, or on the south side of W. Second street, east of the S. Perkins corner.

Two of the parcels, owned by Duane Hunter and the Neumann estate, are surrounded by an 18.15-acre tract being purchased from the Neumann estate for resale to three industries. Such islands should not be permitted, the committee man said.

While it was agreed residential islands should not be permitted in industrial parks, it was said that the three industries agreed to buy knowing they were there.

Contain Houses

Hunter wants $13,000 for his property, the Neumann estate, $13,500. The properties consist of large lots with houses.

The other four small properties also have some improvements. The owners are asking a total of $31,200, with one requesting a trade of lots.

Continued investigation of buying the large Abitz tract will hinge in part on how much it will cost the city to build a sewage lift station required to serve the western portions of it. Director of Public Works Duszynski was instructed to prepare a cost estimate.

Determination of costs proved a somewhat sore point with some officials. The city taxpayer should not have to pay any costs, but will have when the purchase agreements already made are completed, it was said.

George A. Howden, president of the development corporation, said he has an attorney drafting a list of restrictions for deeds. One such restriction should compel buyers to develop the land in a certain time period or the land reverts back to the city, he said. This would prevent criticism if a buyer sells to against them, Mayor Mitchell pointed out.

Industries buying the 18.15-acre tract on the east side of S. Perkins were opposed to such restrictions, he noted.

Howden, in reply to a question, said the corporation could sell stock to help finance purchase of the 61 acres, but the stock sale discussed in early corporation meetings probably would be used to help industry build buildings in the park.

It is apparent, Howden said, that a full-time executive secretary is needed to coordinate industrial development activities. His remarks came after one committee man was critical of handling of the park and program. The program has made "cheap buyers" of the city council, not planners, it was said.

Holiday Special

Nuts Fairly Good Buy; Pork Stays a Bargain

Unshelled nuts, the treats butt, 49 cents, and pork loin, that appear on food counters every year about this time, made their annual debut this week, bowing in at average early holiday price levels.

Fox Cities housewives won't want to pass up the occasional bargain specialty nuts provide. Although they're not priced exceptionally low, they are at good, fair levels, which mean you can afford them for holiday treats and baking.

Filberts and almonds are the least expensive, averaging about 45 cents a pound. Most stores also have nutmeats themselves — but you pay more for the privilege of having had someone else do your work for you.

Pork a Bargain
When the hard brown filbert shell is removed, you'll find the kernel covered with a thin brown skin. Toasting improves a filbert's flavor, and it will help you remove the shell.

Brazil nuts are the kings of this high-protein food specialty. Brazils are about 55 cents a pound. The lowly peanut brings up the parade at about 33 cents a pound.

A housewife taking a peak at the butcher's counter will find this year's best meat bargain — pork — still her best good California navel is buy. Chicken is a close second, but beef remains on the 50-so list.

Other Meats Stable
A quick rundown on pork shows some roasts available at 29 cents a pound; chops at 29 cents to 39 cents a pound; from 33 to 39 cents a pound; with fair quality at the lower price; bacon, 33 to 39 cents; spare ribs, 39 cents; pork all, 49 cents; smoked ham gains.

Instant Potatoes Useful for These Nutritious Dishes

Two recipes that lend themselves to the use of instant potatoes are Shepherd Pie and Potato Puff.

Of course, these two nutritious dishes may be prepared from regular mashed potatoes, particularly leftovers.

Shepherd's Pie

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 12 cups diced cooked meat
- 1 cup diced vegetables
- 1 cup condensed tomato soup
- Salt
- Pepper
- 2 cups hot mashed potatoes

Melt butter in large skillet, add onions, and saute three minutes. Add meat, vegetables and tomato soup, and stir over low heat until well mixed and thoroughly heated. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Pour mixture into greased 1½-quart casserole. Cover with mashed potatoes and bake in 400-degree oven about 15 minutes, until potatoes are light brown.

Potato Puff

- 5 cups mashed potatoes
- 3 tablespoons butter
- One-third cup hot milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
- Paprika

Beat potatoes with butter, milk, salt, pepper and onion. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into greased 1½-quart baking dish. Sprinkle with paprika and bake in 450-degree oven 15 minutes, until lightly browned.

Other meat prices have remained stable, with steaks running from 99 cents to $1.35 a pound, beef roasts, from 65 to 99 cents. Veal and lamb are of excellent quality and readily available, but they usually are not considered bargains.

Eggs are a trifle less expensive this week than last, having gone down about 4 or 5 cents a dozen from their late fall highs. Grade A, large, good quality eggs are priced between 45 and 47 cents a dozen, considered rather good compared to earlier high prices.

Cranberries Safe

Produce counters are sprouting cranberries marked "guaranteed safe," and they cost no more than before — about 19 cents a pound. If you missed cranberries for Thanksgiving, you'll probably want to pick up some now to include as a special garnish with a forthcoming meal.

Oranges, considered of excellent quality at low prices, are beginning to appear all over the Fox Cities. Large, good California navels are about 75 cents a dozen, and small navels are about 45 cents a dozen. Some stores still have not received their latest shipments of new fruit, so watch the quality when you do your shopping.

Bananas, 12 cents a pound; pink grapefruit, 6 cents each; and pears, 25 cents a pound, all are considered good bargains.

Potatoes, squash, onions and rutabagas still are the best buys on the fresh vegetable counters, with prices remaining the same.

Mushrooms Need Careful Cooking

Fresh mushrooms deserve to be carefully prepared.

After stemming, place them in a liberal amount of melted butter in a skillet, heads down, and when they are a golden brown, they are turned, covered and allowed to simmer a few minutes until tender.

The mushrooms are removed to another skillet, and an equal amount of flour is added to the butter and stirred until perfectly smooth. To this brown mixture is added milk and the sauce is carefully stirred until it is smooth. It will need but salt and a dash of pepper as seasoning, although it may be flavored with sherry or cognac if you like.

Creamed Mushrooms

- 2 to 3 pounds mushrooms
- 1 stick butter
- ¼ cup flour
- 2 cups milk
- Salt
- Pepper

Wash and stem mushrooms. Melt butter in skillet. Arrange mushroom caps, heads down, in butter and cook slowly until lightly browned. If necessary, cook caps in two installments. Remove mushrooms to another skillet, cover and let simmer about five minutes until tender. Add flour to butter, and when smooth, add half the milk and continue stirring over low heat until sauce begins to thicken. Add remaining milk and continue stirring. Season to taste. Add mushrooms and heat.

Oil Field 'Menu' Far More Colorful Than Digestible

The lingo of the oil fields' stone and catsup refers to red includes many odd and picturesque terms. A surprising number of these terms relate to food, reflecting the drilling crew's preoccupation with the question: "When do we eat?"

Here is a sample of menu terms made up of words that are part of the workaday language one hears wherever a drilling crew "makes hole."

Probably most everyone knows soup is an explosive and it might not be too hard to guess that spaghetti is small pipe and macaroni big pipe.

But how about such terms as rabbit for a tool that cleans out pipe? Or duck—a portable pump for oil wells? Then there's cabbage, a term for bearings on a connecting rod, and beans, a fee, which means a mistake to oilmen and the drilling crew member who makes one.

Other Food Terms
Eggs are charges of dynamite; tabasco sauce is an acid used to dissolve lime-brew.

The menu finishes with connecting rod, and beans, a fee, which means a mistake to oilmen and the drilling crew member who makes one.

Kraut Carrot Slaw

Chopped Brazil Nuts Flavor Crisp Pie Crust

Big, creamy-colored Brazil nuts when put through the food chopper and then blended with sugar and egg white make a crisp and wondrous flavored pie crust.

No rolling of the crust is required. The same simple recipe can also be used to produce dropstyle nut cookies. After the Brazil nut crust is baked to golden crispness, it can be filled with any favorite filling such as chocolate or mocha or pumpkin chiffon.

Brazil Nut Crust
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 1/2 cups ground Brazil nuts
 1 egg white
 Grease 9-inch pie plate with butter. Line bottom with waxed paper, then grease paper. Add sugar and salt to ground nuts; mix well. Beat egg white until it holds soft peaks; add to nut mixture; combine thoroughly.

Turn mixture into prepared pan and press firmly over bottom and sides. Bake in a 375-degree oven 12 to 15 minutes, or until lightly browned. Remove from oven and carefully loosen sides of crust from pan with thin bladed knife.

Cool 10 minutes, then lift crust from pan. Peel off waxed paper; replace crust in plate. When crust is completely cool, fill with desired chocolate or mocha chiffon filling. Chill until firm.

Crunch Cookies
 For cookies, follow crust recipe, increasing sugar to one-half cup. Drop mixture by level teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheet, about two inches apart. Flatten by pressing with bottom of glass covered with a damp cloth. Bake in a 350-degree oven, 10 minutes. Yield: three dozen cookies.

Pretty Dessert

Apple chunks, white grapes, and coconut mounded in a sherbet dish are good with white wine, or orange juice poured over them.

Wisconsin Capitol Seething With Turbulent Off-Season Politics

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — The state capitol is seething with politics in an off-season when most of its older inhabitants have learned to expect peace and quiet.

Rarely has the partisan battle raged with the fierceness that has broken out lately, and that promises to continue at a stepped up pace in the months ahead. For all practical purposes the parties have reached election campaign year vigor and tempo — nearly 12 months before the people will again go the polls to judge them.

The reason is the fact of the extraordinary recessed session of the legislature now sitting, which provides a forum and a public awareness of statehouse issues that is otherwise not so clearly available.

But significant contributing factors are:

The insecurity of the Democratic state administration, which does not yet have complete control of the legislative branch.

The resolution of the Republicans, having over-come the shock of their unexpected defeat of last fall, to push the administration off-balance and to keep it there in preparation for the struggle to return to power in the 1960 elections.

Currently the Republicans have taken the offensive, and in such a way as to suggest that they have a pattern of strategy to be executed.

A basic theme is the charge that Gov. Nelson, leader of the administration, has betrayed his own pledge to achieve a revision of the state tax structure by insisting upon short-range tax action as this session of the legislature.

Intertwined is an apparently planned effort to indict the

Iola High in UW Guidance Laboratory Plan

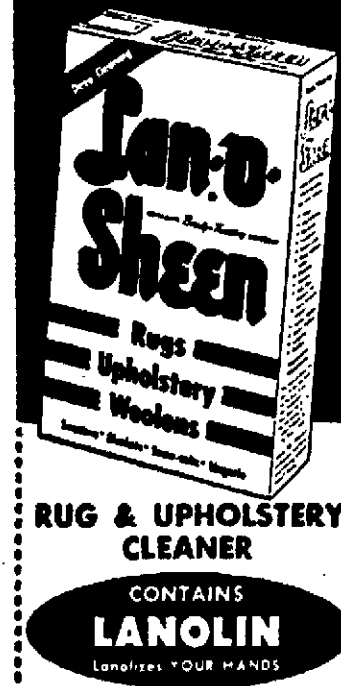

Iola — Iola High school is one of approximately 100 in the state participating in a guidance laboratory for superior secondary students at the University of Wisconsin under sponsorship of the school of education and the college of engineering.

Helen Nassen and Gary Waller, freshmen accompanied by Principal H. O. Blzer attended the first meeting in the program at Wausau and a second at the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

Better Crusts

Many good cooks find it most satisfactory to bake their fruit pies on a low oven rack. This browns the bottom crust rapidly and helps to keep it from being soggy.

Food Testing Program Headache to Industry

All Additives Must be Cleared With Government Agency by March, 1960

New York—The testing program that led to government action against cranberry growers is apparently causing headaches to many food industry executives, reports Purchasing Week magazine. In a survey of seven top food producers, the publication found that there is doubt whether the food industry will be able to meet the deadline for submitting results on laboratory findings of additives and packaging materials to the food and drug administration. Moreover, the producers apparently are looking to their suppliers to do the testing on additives and packaging materials, but they can not escape legal liability themselves.

As of Nov. 1, only five additives received approval, the publication says.

No Extension Yet Some food industry executives have been waiting for F.D.A. to release a long list of exempt items to be given blanket approval on the basis of long use in the trade. But the list has not been released and F.D.A. has not budged on the deadline date, although it can extend the testing period for a year to 1961.

Thousands of compounds are involved and most firms are farming out the testing to research outfits. Once tests are completed (at a cost of up to $50,000 and two or more years of lab time for each test), F.D.A. reviews the results. F.D.A. can give approval for the use of additives or it can announce its findings to the public as it has with cranberries, seize the goods or prosecute company officials.

Thursday, Dec. 3, 1959 Appleton Post-Crescent C16

chasing executives are confused as to the extent of purchasing's responsibility and the responsibility of suppliers, some firms have purchasing policies that take this problem into account.

The purchasing agent of a large company says his firm has always insisted that "all vendors meet requirements of food and drug laws, even before we place an order from them. They must comply with our specifications and we are a lot stricter than the federal government."

$53.50 Rate for Neenah Given
Council Okay

Aldermen Approve $2.50
Increase for New High

Neenah — A $2.50 tax rate increase to bring the total for the city to $53.50 per $1,000 assessed valuation for 1960 was approved by the common council Wednesday night as it set a new high both for the tax rate and for the $3,782,456 budget. The budget and tax rate passed unanimously, although three aldermen, Ewald Miller, Leonard Hedberg and James Dinius were absent. Had not a fourth alderman, Warren Sanders, who had been at home recovering from surgery, shown up, no council meeting or hearing could have been held. Seven are needed for a quorum.

The board of education will receive $23.46 out of the $53.50 rate for a total of $891,800. This year it received

Mother's Funeral
Wednesday, Man Takes Own Life

Menasha — Henry Duerrwaechter, 58, 105 Broad street took his life this morning, a day after his mother's funeral.

Death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning. He ran a vacuum cleaner hose attached to the tailpipe of his car through a rear window.

His physician said he was under treatment for a nervous condition in recent months. Last summer he began building a new home at 106 Water street. It is unfinished.

City police were called to the home by the dead man's brother, Emil, who found the body in the car. Emil said his brother had left the house about 8:15 a.m. and he began looking for Henry about 15 minutes later.

Funeral services were held Wednesday for his mother, Mrs. Anna Duerrwaechter, 86, who died Sunday.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at St. Timothy Lutheran church with the Rev. Robert Jacobson, pastor in charge. Burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery. Friends may call after 3 p.m. Friday to 11 a.m. Saturday at the Laemmrich Funeral home, and from noon Saturday at the church.

He was born July 3, 1901 in Menasha, was a lifelong city resident and was a pressman at George Banta company, where he worked 41 years. He also was a charter member of St. Timothy Lutheran church.

Debt Costs
Debt service costs the city $380,173 next year, amounting to $10 of the $53.50 rate. This year $9.63 was its share of the rate to raise $332,500.

City purposes will need $11.03 of the $53.50 rate to bring in $419,175. This year it needed only $9.26 to provide $338,764.

Also sharing in the tax rate is the state and county tax of $7.55 on the rate for a total needed of $286,837. The $9 share this year provided $329,525.

Levy Up $166,000
The tax levy being raised totals $2,033,325, an increase of $166,000. The budget itself represents a boost of $332,000 in expenses over that for this year.

Several changes were made by the council since the original budget was proposed. One of these was to add $12,500 to the outlays for police station equipment since the new station is to be completed sometime next year. The street land purchase also was hiked from $1,500 to $5,000 and a slight increase was made in the street construction budget.

Also added to the budget was a repayment of money advanced this year from city funds for the architect's fees for the new junior high school.

Clark Reappointed
Menasha — Police Chief Peter P. Clark has been reappointed to an eighth term on the finance committee of the Wisconsin Police Chiefs' association. He was notified by Michael Grafenauer, Jr., association president and West Milwaukee police chief.

At Budget Hearing
$5,000 Sewage Disposal Charge
To Lakeview Called 'Too Small'

Neenah — A protest against the amount the Lakeview mill pays for being connected to the Neenah-Menasha sewage disposal plant was lodged at the council's 20-minute public hearing on the budget Wednesday night.

Frank X. Hochholzer, speaking as a private citizen rather than as a member of any board or commission, said the $5,000 paid by the Lakeview mill is "far too small" and half of what it should be.

He asked if the sewerage commission included income received in its budget and if the council was aware of that income. The mayor replied the income anticipated is not indicated but he assumed the council was aware that extra income was received.

Hochholzer said that the charge for use of the facilities by those outside the city is set by the commission.

Oshkosh Man as
New Chairman

Oshkosh — Al Charapata, Oshkosh, was elected chairman of the Winnebago county Democratic organization on the fourth ballot here Wednesday night. He defeated Ted Jackson and Herbert Pitz, both of Oshkosh.

Dr. Ralph Norem declined renomination.

John Dachel, Neenah, was chosen vice chairman over Chester Hofberger, Fremont, and Ray Robertson, Oshkosh. Joseph Hentz of Oshkosh won over Herman Brandt, Oshkosh, for the sergeant-at-arms post.

Approximately 65 attended the meeting but only 59 were voting members.

He listed four avenues of approach to the problem. First was for a meeting of the sewerage commission with Kimberly-Clark officials to find out why the charge was set at $5,000 when at the rate paid by city people the rate should have been about double.

Second approach was to

Receives $15 Fine

Oshkosh — Claude Howe, Weyauwega, arrested Wednesday night on Sawyer street for being drunk and disorderly, this morning pleaded guilty and was fined $15 and costs by Municipal Judge S. J. Luchsinger.

Excess Funds Will be Used
To Complete Fifth and Sixth Floors, Chairman Declares

Neenah — Excess funds above the $3,850,000 subscription drive will be set aside to complete the fifth and sixth floors of the new Theda Clark building at the right time, Nathan H. Bergstrom, chairman of the hospital board of trustees, declared at the final report meeting Wednesday night.

Ground breaking for the new wing probably will be next fall, the chairman indicated, saying preliminary work with the architects is underway now and with the building committee headed by Donald C. Shepard, Jr. he assured there would be no unwarranted delay in the construction.

New South Wing

He also indicated trustees would be happy to set aside the excess money available to complete the fifth and sixth floors of the new structure at the right time—when needed and yet so they won't add needless operating costs.

The $3,850,000 goal is intended to provide $2,300,000 for the new south wing six stories high and connecting wing; $500,000 to bring diagnostic, treatment and service facilities up to present day standards, $220,000 to air condition the present building as a therapeutic measure; $310,000 to shell-in, leaving unfinished, the fifth and sixth floors of the south and connecting wings until needed; $320,000 for contingency and unforeseen items and $200 for land acquisition.

$600 Taken From Lumber Company

Oshkosh — Theft of $600 in cash and checks from the safe at the Home Lumber and Millwork company on Highway 41 in the town of Menasha was reported to the sheriff's office this morning.

Deputy Sheriff Robert Berrell of the county police said the entrance was gained by jimmying a door. The safe was drilled to get at the money and the office was ransacked in a search for additional money.

Reconsider $160 Fine to Curb Builder

Council Refers Charge for Delay In Completing Job

Neenah — A proposal to charge the Henry Verbruggen and Sons firm of Little Chute $160 in damages for failure to complete the curb and gutter work on time was referred back to the public works committee by the common council Wednesday night.

The committee had recommended allowing the firm eight days credit on the 24 days delay in completing its work because of inclement weather over which the firm had no control.

John Verbruggen told the council Wednesday night he could not see why he should be fined for any delay. The council held up work on the Hansen street project until it could have a meeting to decide what to do with several trees on the south side.

Held Up by Trees

"If I had gone ahead with the project, I would have had the trees gone. But I held up the construction for three days and moved back to Menasha during that period. I had Hansen and Church streets done in time and you had beautiful weather for black-topping."

Mayor Bell commented the trees did not cause a 24-day delay.

Wayne G. Bryan, public works director, said he did not have his notes with him as to the delay caused by the trees and the council deciding on a reduced width. "I agree with Verbruggen that it is not logical to keep moving back and forth from one city to the other."

The mayor suggested Verbruggen meet with the committee to go over the matter and the council voted that this be done.

Jay-Rocket Clash Kicks Off M-E Play

Neenah Cagers Attempt to Protect 3-0 Mark; Menasha Cops One of Three Outings

Menasha — Neenah and Menasha will open their Mid-Eastern conference schedule in a most noteworthy manner — against each other here Friday night.

The Rockets go into this league inaugural with three straight wins; Menasha has a win and two losses. They haven't played any common foes.

In trimming Fond du Lac 65-54, Wisconsin Rapids 86-64 and Ripon 79-60, the Rockets have averaged slightly more than 76 points per game. Their opponents have a 59-plus point per game average.

Menasha, in downing West De Pere 52-40, and losing to Manitowoc 66-59 and Appleton 57-56, is averaging a little better than 56 points per game while its foes' average is around 54 points.

High Scorers

Coach Ole Jorgensen, who if he chooses, can start a lineup of boys all of whom are 6 feet or taller, giving Neenah a height advantage. Lettermen Paul Felton, Dick Wilson, Jack Ankerson and Tom Smith and sophomore Dave Burton all top that mark.

Menasha's front line of Bill Ritchie, Dave Ristau and Bill Prange exceeds the 6-0 mark but guards Jim Stenson and Jay Drzewiecki are under that height.

Ristau has scored 58 points in three games to pace the Jays. Drzewiecki has 33, Stenson 28, Ritchie 21 and Prange seven.

Field Goals

Topping Neenah is Ankerson with 71. Wilson has 45, Smith 21, Felton 20, Burton and Forrest Hyde 19 and Don Althaus, who alternates at a guard spot with Hyde, 14.

The Rockets have scored 89 field goals and collected 50 free throws in 80 attempts. They've fouled 51 times.

Menasha has been plagued with poor free throw shooting. It has fouled 74 times in three games and has made less than 50 per cent of its free throws — 33 for 70. The Jays have scored 67 field goals.

The Rockets closed last year's conference season with a 7-7 record. Menasha had a 4-10 slate.

Wins in Overtime

Neenah won its home game 71-60 in an overtime after the Jays blew a 4-point lead with 46 seconds left. The Rockets had a 13-2 edge in the overtime. Menasha missed a free throw after the final horn sounded which if made would have won the game for it.

Wilson had 14 points and Bill Kuehl made 13 for Neenah and Russ Wendt had 15 for Menasha.

Menasha sprung a 66-54 upset in the second meeting. It broke a 30-all tie with seven straight points. Dave Ristau had 26 for Menasha and Dick Wilson 17 for the Rockets.

The Rockets took the "rubber" game 63-59 in the first game of the subregional tournament. Ankerson scored 21 points and Wilson had 18 for Neenah and "Rocky" Jersid tallied 16 for the Jays.

Menasha Natives, Playing on opposing basketball teams, were involved in a hassle for the ball in Tuesday's Oshkosh State college-St. Norbert game at Oshkosh. Bob Karisny (14) of the Titans has possession but is being given an argument by Al Wisneski of St. Norbert. Both played for the St. John Holy Name team last year. Virgil Batterman is the official. Oshkosh State claimed a 111-78 win.

Land Group Withdraws School Site

10-Acre Offer
Rescinded; Hits
Annexation Fee

Neenah — An offer to donate 10 acres of land for school or park purposes by Farms, Inc., made back in 1956, was withdrawn by the organization, council members were advised Wednesday night.

In a letter to the council, park board and school board, Gaylord C. Loehning, president of the group of subdividers which is developing the Green Acres plat on the west side of Highway 41, explained one of the reasons was the $300 per acre fee for annexation set by the council since this offer was made.

This fee was supposed to be used primarily for purchase of land for school and park purposes in newly annexed areas and the fee received from the subdividers could adequately take care of the cost of the 10-acre site.

A second objection was that the city had changed its policy regarding assessing full costs for installation of sewer and water interceptors since the land offer was made in 1956.

It was mentioned at the council meeting that the Farms, Inc., had agreed to pay the cost now for larger sewers to serve that area already annexed and that area owned by them which is still outside the city and will be annexed later since the larger sewers would be needed to handle the additional area.

Committee Report
The council voted to file the letter which came in on the same night as the council's special committee on annexation recommended throwing out the $300 per acre fee. The council committee had drawn up its recommendations prior to the receipt of the letter withdrawing the school site offer.

Ald. Warren Sanders, who presented the special committee's report, stated the $300 per acre fee tends to discourage the annexation of land for industrial uses, is inconsistent with the new statutory procedure which permits a city to initiate annexation proceedings, tends to discourage the annexation of individual parcels already improved and tends to prevent annexation of property unless all of the property owners in the areas to be annexed are in favor.

He also said some subdividers are unable to advance the entire fee for an entire tract owned by them and thus seek annexation of only small areas at a time. This leads to successive annexations of small tracts with a multiplicity of plats.

Others Paid Fee
Sanders also mentioned that if some persons in an area to be annexed were against the annexation, the others favoring it would have to pay that person's share of the fee in order to get the entire site annexed.

Since three aldermen were absent, the council decided to postpone action to Dec. 16 on eliminating the $300 fee.

On this special committee were Sanders, Ald. Paul Hansen, Carl Loehning, a former mayor, City Clerk R. V. Hauser, City Atty. Charles Schaller, Director of Public Works Wayne G. Bryan and Mayor Chester S. Bell.

In accepting the gift, Bergstrom said, "The trustees recognize their responsibility to use this money to produce a high quality building, without needless luxuries, and secure excellent patient care at the lowest possible operating cost."

He also expressed appreciation for the enthusiasm, quick understanding, ingenuity and devotion each one of you has given to the fund appeal program. Without these extras, the many tasks inherent in this grand effort might have taken months instead of weeks to accomplish. This achievement assures all of you excellent hospitalization whenever needed."

Leo Croy, general chairman of the fund campaign, described the campaign as a "miracle" and said he was looking forward to a new era — a new community interest in the hospital.

Leo Schubart, head of the special gifts section, declared the occasion was V-NM day as he expressed his gratitude to his workers. D. R. "Jim" Courtney, area chairman, reported the gifts from his workers and reports were presented for George Elwers and Mrs. Chester Shepard, head of the teams section.

Carl Geisler, chairman of the employe gifts group, said the goal was reached through industry, management and labor working together. Charles Sage, reporting for S. F. Shattuck, head of the advance gifts committee, made the original suggestion at Wednesday's meeting that excess funds be set aside for completion of the fifth and sixth floors.

Neenah Council Votes Elm Disease Control

Passes Ordinance Putting Control Program Under Public Works Director

Neenah — A half hour's discussion on Dutch elm disease control and on the effects of spraying trees culminated in the passage of a control ordinance by the council Wednesday night and an instruction to the street and sanitation

Mayor Bell said the ordinance contained no provision

Fara Dix about notices being served for the spraying of trees.

Sanders added he had read an article about it being better to lose the trees than all the birds.

"We are somewhat on the horns of a dilemma," Mayor Bell mentioned. "We have about 5,500 elm trees in the committee to consider an amendment regarding the spraying.

"The ordinance puts the disease control program under the director of public works and provides for the removal of any trees on city property that are affected and, after due notice is served on any property owner, of trees on private property.

The amendment to be considered is to include notices to property owners if spray programs are to be used." Ald. Warren Sanders raised the first objection when the ordinance was read. He asked about any possible toxic effects on the surrounding area from the spraying.

Could Kill Birds
Edwin West, 112 Pine street a member of the audience, inquired whether land owners would receive notices of spraying and have a chance to meet with the committee. "I understand the spraying could kill the birds and I am concerned about the general effect."

city. The disease moves rapidly once started. The money cost to remove those 5,500 trees could run to a half million dollars besides the irreparable damage to the beauty of the city.

"Prompt removal of any diseased tree is needed. We had five suspect trees this year but the laboratory tests showed negative results. The affected wood must be removed immediately and burned and we must be prepared to move fast. The ordinance is designed to get preventive measures underway."

Sanders wondered about communities outside the city which may have diseased trees that would spread the disease to the city trees. City Atty. Charles Schaller said the state department of agriculture under the law had the power to move in and handle any diseased trees but that, because of a shortage of help was asking the cities to handle their own programs.

'Could Lose Trees'
"If we do nothing, I think we will lose our trees," the mayor commented. He said he was lukewarm about the matter at first but after seeing pictures and figures about what happened in other cities, such as Rockford, Ill., where entire streets lost most of their trees through a delay in adopting some program, he thought the council should act with reasonable promptness.

Ald. Peter Fara thought it best to adopt the ordinance immediately and study possible amendments for future meetings and Ald. Aaron Dix said that sanitation, removal of dead wood, was the important thing in combatting the disease.

Wayne Bryan, public works director, said the street department planned to begin work Monday to remove dead wood on trees along the streets and in the parks and that passage of the ordinance now would help them.

The ordinance provides for serving notice on owners of property which contained diseased trees, calling for the removal of the tree within 10 days or city crews will do it and charge the cost back to the property owner.

The property owners also will be charged for any spraying of trees. The ordinance is a model ordinance proposed by the League of Wisconsin Municipalities.

Name Kalfahs To 3rd Term on Cemetery Unit

Council Provides Share of Cost of Regional Planning

Neenah — E. A. Kalfahs, former Neenah mayor, was reelected by the council Wednesday night to another term on the board of cemetery commissioners. The position is filled by council election. This will be his third term.

The council also passed with only one dissenting vote, that of Ald. Warren Sanders, an irrevocable tax setting on Neenah's share of the Fox Valley Regional planning program. Ald. Ewald Miller, Leonard Hedberg and James Dinus were absent.

The city will provide $6,430 each year for three years, amounting to 16.51 per cent of the program's cost. Any private contributions to the program will reduce the cost to the city on the same percentage ratio.

Referred to the public protection committee was a notice from Building Inspector Carlton F. Williams that a sidewalk request by the Larson Paint store on Church street could not be granted without council approval since the driveway would be within 15 feet of a crosswalk.

Honor New Members of 25-Year Club

W. R. Kellett Hits Modern Mediocrity, Gives Principles

Menasha — Mediocrity and the whole modern philosophy of being just average were described as a danger Wednesday to 15 new members of the Quarter-Century club of George Banta company employees and other guests.

Speaker at a dinner in the long-time employees' honor at North Shore Country club was William R. Kellett, president of Kimberly - Clark corporation.

Kellett compared the Kimberly-Clark and Banta firms as observing the same three principles: 1. treating customers fairly; 2. treating employees fairly; and 3. offering the best possible product. In his attack on mediocrity, Kellett said it was desirable to inspire people to strive for above - average attainment. Kellett added that the two firms' original philosophy was to expand as the need for their products and the economy grew.

George Banta, Jr., company president, who introduced Kellett, said the Banta firm grew from 300 employees in 1943 to about 860 now.

Toastmaster was George Banta III. Hayward Biggers, son,

Three Pose Questions on 1960 Budget

take legal action to see how much power the sewerage commission and the state board of health have to order the plant to be connected to the sewage disposal plant.

His third suggestion was for a change in legislation since the outlying districts have not paid anything for the capital outlays as those in the city do.

Would Ask Resignation

His fourth approach was to ask the entire sewerage commission to resign and to "appoint those with the interests of the community at heart."

Half of the extra money received would of course go to Menasha to reduce its share of the sewage disposal plant costs, he added. "We are not getting adequate revenue for what they are putting into the plant."

Mrs. Bert Holverson raised a question on the library budget as to why it was up about $9,000 and also if any addition to the library was planned.

Library Budget

The mayor replied that salary increases of $6,400 and $500 for professional advice looking toward an ultimate building addition were the reasons. The salaries have not been raised and will not be raised until the survey report by the state bureau of personnel is received.

The third person to speak on the proposed budget at the hearing was Ted Dupont who wanted to know why $4,000 was included in the budget for the cemetery fence repair and whether the city attorney had investigated a suit to recover the cost for the repair work.

City Atty. Charles Schaller replied he had investigated but that the principals involved were minors who had no funds and the car was stolen so the insurance on the car did not cover the damage.

Fence Repair

At some time in the future the city probably could enforce its claim, he said.

Mayor Bell said the $4,000 was just an estimate but that the cost might not come anywhere near that figure. It wasn't just the fence that was

Lesson in English

Words Often Misused: Do not say, "The top surface of the table is elliptical in shape." Omit "in" shape," which is superfluous.

Often Mispronounced: Anathema (a curse or denunciation). Pronounce a-nath-e-ma, with accent on second syllable.

Often Misspelled: Humidor; "dor." Troubadour; "dour." Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: euphuistic; containing artificial elegance of language, or high-flown diction. (Pronounce vu-fyu-iss-tick, accent third syllable.) "The politician punctuated his speech with florid, euphuistic phrases."

Opens New Plant for Tours
$12 Million Rolling Mill Has Capacity of 60 Million Tons

Manitowoc — More than 15,000 persons are expected to attend a 2-day open house at the new $12 million rolling mill of Mirro Aluminum company here Saturday and Sunday.

The new mill, covering nearly three square city blocks, houses a heavy-duty, fully-integrated plant using completely new equipment. All aluminum sheet and foil production from the mill will be used for fabrication of company products in Manitowoc and nearby Two Rivers.

Initial capacity of the mill is 60 million pounds annually. For about 50 years Mirro operated its own rolling mills, producing part of the aluminum sheet needs from ingot and buying the balance from outside mills. The mill now is inadequate.

Ground was broken for the new mill in May, 1958, and the building completely enclosed by March, 1959. Installation of machinery and equipment has been underway since.

Wire used in the plant stretches 134 miles and glass would enclose 200 average homes.

Tour groups over the weekend will see the full workings of the plant from melting of ingots to the rolling process, which is completely automatic, to a quality control laboratory and shipping facilities.

Hours of the tours are from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Saturday and Sunday and from 1:15 p.m. to 4:45 p.m. Saturday and from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Shares Again Move Higher
Steels, Motors And Oils Traded Briskly on Exchange

New York — The stock market resumed its upward push early this afternoon in fairly active trading.

Oils, steels and motors were actively traded with gains running to a point or more. Elsewhere movements in both directions were largely held to fractions.

The slight uptrend developed from a mixed early trading. Favorable outlook for retention of the controversial depletion allowance helped the oil group, along with the feeling in Wall Street that tax loss selling in this group now has been exhausted.

Richfield, up nearly 2, and California Standard, up almost a point, benefited from a published report of a new producing well in their joint Alaska operations.

Chemicals, aircrafts and airlines were easy, while other groups showed a scramble of plus and minus signs.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 50 cents to $225.60 with industrials up 80 cents, rails 20 cents and utilities 10 cents.

Burglars broke into the Lieber Lumber Company, Inc., Highway 125, Wednesday night and took an electric drill, but failed to open the firm's safe.

The firm keeps its records in the safe, but no money, Lieber officials said. The burglars took an undetermined amount of stamps from the office.
